Council Elections Wind Up

Mark Everard

The closing of polls this afternoon at 5:00 will bring to an end the 1976 student council elections. With official results expected shortly thereafter, any suspense created by this year's lackluster campaigns will be put to rest. Nominations were opened on March 1, 2 weeks later than the date specified in the constitution, but because of a lack of response had to be kept open an extra week. Enough nominations were then received to fill most vacancies, but the only contested positions were those of president and vice-president for academic affairs. Acclaimed to office were Philip Rose, chairman, Dave Zales, student senator, Don MacKinnon, Vice-President internal, Irene Patrick, Vice-President external, Rick Leroux, Vice-President communications and Cheryl Watson, Vice-President cultural.

The presidential campaign faded into a close match of words and promises, and the vice-presidential contest between Greg Deacon and Stuart Starbuck, were reported to be seriously and actively running for the job, however neither seemed to have made much impression on the student body at large. Evidently, they were either unable to mount a large campaign or judged a low-key approach to be more appropriate. Under the constitution, the new president will assume office May 1. The only visible presence in the race for vice-president academic has been Sandi Hughes, whose campaign has been highlighted by colourful, distinctive posters. The main event of the campaign was an all candidates meeting in the New Dining Hall Monday afternoon. After some preliminary remarks by outgoing president Mike Drache, each of the candidates was introduced by Chief Returning Officer Hugh McPherson. Both presidential candidates gave short addresses. Greg Deacon gave the more lively of the two speeches, laying special stress on his opposition to main campus proposals to increase the amount of scrip forced on residents next year. He also called for an improved bilingual community at Glendon. Stuart Starbuck then gave a quiet address, noting the needs of many who had hoped for a wide-open race to erase memories of last year's acclamation.

This year's candidates, Greg Deacon and Stuart Starbuck, were reported to be seriously and actively running for the job, however neither seemed to have made much impression on the student body at large. Evidently, they were either unable to mount a large campaign or judged a low-key approach to be more appropriate. Under the constitution, the new president will assume office May 1. The only visible presence in the race for vice-president academic has been Sandi Hughes, whose campaign has been highlighted by colourful, distinctive posters. The main event of the campaign was an all candidates meeting in the New Dining Hall Monday afternoon. After some preliminary remarks by outgoing president Mike Drache, each of the candidates was introduced by Chief Returning Officer Hugh McPherson. Both presidential candidates gave short addresses. Greg Deacon gave the more lively of the two speeches, laying special stress on his opposition to main campus proposals to increase the amount of scrip forced on residents next year. He also called for an improved bilingual community at Glendon. Stuart Starbuck then gave a quiet address, noting the needs of many who had hoped for a wide-open race to erase memories of last year's acclamation.

The presidential campaign faded into a close match of words and promises, and the vice-presidential contest between Greg Deacon and Stuart Starbuck, were reported to be seriously and actively running for the job, however neither seemed to have made much impression on the student body at large. Evidently, they were either unable to mount a large campaign or judged a low-key approach to be more appropriate. Under the constitution, the new president will assume office May 1. The only visible presence in the race for vice-president academic has been Sandi Hughes, whose campaign has been highlighted by colourful, distinctive posters. The main event of the campaign was an all candidates meeting in the New Dining Hall Monday afternoon. After some preliminary remarks by outgoing president Mike Drache, each of the candidates was introduced by Chief Returning Officer Hugh McPherson. Both presidential candidates gave short addresses. Greg Deacon gave the more lively of the two speeches, laying special stress on his opposition to main campus proposals to increase the amount of scrip forced on residents next year. He also called for an improved bilingual community at Glendon. Stuart Starbuck then gave a quiet address, noting the needs of many who had hoped for a wide-open race to erase memories of last year's acclamation.

The presidential campaign faded into a close match of words and promises, and the vice-presidential contest between Greg Deacon and Stuart Starbuck, were reported to be seriously and actively running for the job, however neither seemed to have made much impression on the student body at large. Evidently, they were either unable to mount a large campaign or judged a low-key approach to be more appropriate. Under the constitution, the new president will assume office May 1. The only visible presence in the race for vice-president academic has been Sandi Hughes, whose campaign has been highlighted by colourful, distinctive posters. The main event of the campaign was an all candidates meeting in the New Dining Hall Monday afternoon. After some preliminary remarks by outgoing president Mike Drache, each of the candidates was introduced by Chief Returning Officer Hugh McPherson. Both presidential candidates gave short addresses. Greg Deacon gave the more lively of the two speeches, laying special stress on his opposition to main campus proposals to increase the amount of scrip forced on residents next year. He also called for an improved bilingual community at Glendon. Stuart Starbuck then gave a quiet address, noting the needs of many who had hoped for a wide-open race to erase memories of last year's acclamation.

This year's candidates, Greg Deacon and Stuart Starbuck, were reported to be seriously and actively running for the job, however neither seemed to have made much impression on the student body at large. Evidently, they were either unable to mount a large campaign or judged a low-key approach to be more appropriate. Under the constitution, the new president will assume office May 1. The only visible presence in the race for vice-president academic has been Sandi Hughes, whose campaign has been highlighted by colourful, distinctive posters. The main event of the campaign was an all candidates meeting in the New Dining Hall Monday afternoon. After some preliminary remarks by outgoing president Mike Drache, each of the candidates was introduced by Chief Returning Officer Hugh McPherson. Both presidential candidates gave short addresses. Greg Deacon gave the more lively of the two speeches, laying special stress on his opposition to main campus proposals to increase the amount of scrip forced on residents next year. He also called for an improved bilingual community at Glendon. Stuart Starbuck then gave a quiet address, noting the needs of many who had hoped for a wide-open race to erase memories of last year's acclamation.

The presidential campaign faded into a close match of words and promises, and the vice-presidential contest between Greg Deacon and Stuart Starbuck, were reported to be seriously and actively running for the job, however neither seemed to have made much impression on the student body at large. Evidently, they were either unable to mount a large campaign or judged a low-key approach to be more appropriate. Under the constitution, the new president will assume office May 1. The only visible presence in the race for vice-president academic has been Sandi Hughes, whose campaign has been highlighted by colourful, distinctive posters. The main event of the campaign was an all candidates meeting in the New Dining Hall Monday afternoon. After some preliminary remarks by outgoing president Mike Drache, each of the candidates was introduced by Chief Returning Officer Hugh McPherson. Both presidential candidates gave short addresses. Greg Deacon gave the more lively of the two speeches, laying special stress on his opposition to main campus proposals to increase the amount of scrip forced on residents next year. He also called for an improved bilingual community at Glendon. Stuart Starbuck then gave a quiet address, noting the needs of many who had hoped for a wide-open race to erase memories of last year's acclamation.
What's Cooking With OFS

Mike Druhe and Kathi Fort have met with President Macdonald concerning John Beck-er's refusal to present to the board of Gov-ernors the referenda passed by GCSU invol-ving the $4.00 increase in student fees. Macdonald was sympathetic to Council's re-quest that the referenda be presented. It seems that Becker was giving Macdonald a snow job. GCSU is not the only organization on campus which has had such problems. Many of the deans at Main Campus have been treated in a similar manner by Becker. Council moved that efforts should be made to have John Becker removed from office.

Ken Gingerich met with the Visual Arts Committee up at York Main, where discussion centered around showing more of the art which is now scattered around campus, to the students. Ken felt that York Main didn't really have any plans for showing any of this art to students at Glendon and that Glendon doesn't really have any control over the mat-ter. Suggestions of purchasing, commission-ing, or renting art specifically for Glendon, were made. Council is now considering re-placing the "garbage cans" in the breezeway with a possible Henry Moore?!

Ed. Note: The so-called garbage cans in the breezeway are actually a fine example of modern module sculpture by Ray Spowers. Glendon is lucky to have this work on loan for a short time.

Profound Statements From the Chief

 Booze for Supper
Every Monday and Thursday boozes can be had at supper for a modest sum. If students wish, they can have either wine or beer. If people wish this service, they must participate in the choice is clearly yours. In vino veritas.

Meetings for New Members
The only way that the new members of the student union can make it function properly is by coming to the meetings every Monday night at 7:00 p.m. in the Senate Board Room.

Bilingual Exchange Scholarship

The Robert & Mary Stanford Foundation Bilingual Exchange Scholarships in Canadian Studies.

Two scholarships valued at $2,500 will be awarded for one academic year. One to a man or woman who wishes to pursue their Canadian Studies in a language other than their own. The winning offices must either be a member or affiliated to a member of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada. To ensure that there is a bilingual exchange the following university authorities (Vice-President Académie, Vice-President Administra-tion, or Registrar) must certify on the application form that the candidate meets the following requirements:

1. Candidates must be Canadian citizens.
2. Candidates must be undergraduate students who have completed at least one (1) year of a university degree program.
3. Candidates must have an average grade of BPG.
4. Candidates must have an aptitude to pursue their studies in their second language.

5. The following Canadian and relevant fields of study: i.e. Canadian Northern Studies, Cana-dian Plains Area Studies, French-Canadian Studies, Indian- Eskimo Studies, Native Studies, Cana-dian Politics, French Canadian Language and Literature, North American Literature in English, History, Canadian Economics are considered as suitable for the scholarship. Scholarships are available to anglophones and francophones. Further information is available at the Pro Tem Office, from Jennifer Wauth in the Principal's Office, C-Wing or from department chairs.
solution for all that work

To the Editors:

I'm sure that you don't have to be told, but the most obvious student news paper needs fillers, so I'll inform you all that we've reached that time of year again when everyone seems to be pulling up Pro Tern's collective socks. If you really should reflect on the view points and events of the campus. We feel that if there is nothing really important on campus, then it is necessary to expose our deepest inner feelings or conduct discussions on federal politics. Our deepest inner feelings are our business, and professional editorial comment is available on political issues in the major Toronto newspapers. If either of your keenly interested in you, you are welcome to drop by Pro Tern in order to get to know us, or to pick up a Globe and Mail to satisfy your political appetite.

It so happens that this week there is a crop of notes. First of all, for our last issue (hard to believe, eh!) someone has finally had the final say to about any politics or libel law. Secondly, if you've been wandering around with your head in the clouds, thinking about all your work, you don't have to ask the pro temers asking for nominees for positions on the student council. This is the only explanation for both votes out of seventeen (17) were contested. Can we assume that this will be the reason for Glendon? Is it therefore to be concluded that Pro Tern therefore is not the case. Only four members were present who could vote. Tradition rules that the editors not approve any "pro tem" ballot. The rest of the student elects. One proxy vote was offered, bringing the voting body to five. Surely, this member had to be present in blood-boiling issue to all Glendonites, but since the voting was extremely close (the exact figures I am not at liberty to reveal), this may have been beneficial. Perhaps a fellow student has a better idea as an alternative to mine. At least it would seem better to fight and switch, than to give up in and give in to patchwork proposals.

Yours Truly,
Rob Williams

Successful bilingual programme

Letter to the Editors: Here at Glendon College, I am pleased to be able to tell you about the bilingual programme that has been quite successful. While Spanish, for example, is another good language to improve a knowledge of the French language, I don't claim to have a great cure-all solution.

Perhaps a fellow student has a better idea as an alternative to mine. At least it would seem better to fight and switch, than to give up in and give in to patchwork proposals.

Yours Truly,
Rob Williams

Dear Editors,

Abolish scrip! Beaver Foods does not need any monetary commitment at the beginning of each school term (ie. food money included in residence fees). They have a captive community who have contributed to the production of the newspaper in the capacity of writing, editing, layout and paste-up, business management (a position which commands a maximum salary of $1500. for eight months of work) and advertising (a position which commands a maximum salary of $500. for eight months of work) the constitution does not state that any percentage of staff members must attend the meeting. If the meeting were postponed until fifteen per cent staff members were present the editor(s) might never get convictions. I believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

As for the quorum, the constitution does not state that any percentage of staff members must attend the meeting. If the meeting were postponed until fifteen per cent staff members were present the editor(s) might never get convictions. I believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Proxy voting is done, we believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Thank you for the good, solid reporting job which you did in the latest issue of Pro Tem concerning D.I.A.R. It was heavy on facts and light on biases (a reasonable combination, I feel).

If this is any indication of the reporting which we at Glendon may expect next year, I am sure that the editor(s) can look forward to a blood-blooding issue to all Glendonites, but it is certainly a pressing problem for many (especially media students) and I feel it is a step in the right direction as far as pulling up Pro Tem's collective socks.

My hope is that you and your staff will keep producing this sort of article next September.

Yours truly,
Bob Williams

Dear Editors,

I agree with your letter to the editor titled "Achle's Letter to Pro Tem." Beaver Foods does not need any monetary commitment at the beginning of each school term (ie. food money included in residence fees). They have a captive community who have contributed to the production of the newspaper in the capacity of writing, editing, layout and paste-up, business management (a position which commands a maximum salary of $1500. for eight months of work) and advertising (a position which commands a maximum salary of $500. for eight months of work) the constitution does not state that any percentage of staff members must attend the meeting. If the meeting were postponed until fifteen per cent staff members were present the editor(s) might never get convictions. I believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

As for the quorum, the constitution does not state that any percentage of staff members must attend the meeting. If the meeting were postponed until fifteen per cent staff members were present the editor(s) might never get convictions. I believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Proxy voting is done, we believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Thank you for the good, solid reporting job which you did in the latest issue of Pro Tem concerning D.I.A.R. It was heavy on facts and light on biases (a reasonable combination, I feel).

If this is any indication of the reporting which we at Glendon may expect next year, I am sure that the editor(s) can look forward to a blood-blooding issue to all Glendonites, but it is certainly a pressing problem for many (especially media students) and I feel it is a step in the right direction as far as pulling up Pro Tem's collective socks.

My hope is that you and your staff will keep producing this sort of article next September.

Yours truly,
Bob Williams

Ed. Note: The Glendon College Newspaper states that "The newspaper staff shall be defined as all members of the Glendon community who have contributed to the production of the newspaper in the capacity of writing, editing, layout and paste-up, business of advertising or photography within two months to the decision of (new editors) being made. This constitution is available to any Glendon student. $2,000.00 is set aside in the newspaper budget for salaries - that is for whatever combination - one editor and one business manager or two editors plus business manager, or just two editors. Proxy voting is done, we believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

As for the quorum, the constitution does not state that any percentage of staff members must attend the meeting. If the meeting were postponed until fifteen per cent staff members were present the editor(s) might never get convictions. I believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Proxy voting is done, we believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Thank you for the good, solid reporting job which you did in the latest issue of Pro Tem concerning D.I.A.R. It was heavy on facts and light on biases (a reasonable combination, I feel).

If this is any indication of the reporting which we at Glendon may expect next year, I am sure that the editor(s) can look forward to a blood-blooding issue to all Glendonites, but it is certainly a pressing problem for many (especially media students) and I feel it is a step in the right direction as far as pulling up Pro Tem's collective socks.

My hope is that you and your staff will keep producing this sort of article next September.

Yours truly,
Bob Williams

P.S. If you are really going out of your by Gail Berman mind, take a few minutes off, like I just did, and write a letter or an article to let some men and women are scarcely any nominees for student council, very few (albeit talented) applicants for editor and business manager, or two editors. Proxy voting is done, we believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

As for the quorum, the constitution does not state that any percentage of staff members must attend the meeting. If the meeting were postponed until fifteen per cent staff members were present the editor(s) might never get convictions. I believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Proxy voting is done, we believe, in student council meetings and there is no specific recommendation prohibiting this practice in the written constitution.

Thank you for the good, solid reporting job which you did in the latest issue of Pro Tem concerning D.I.A.R. It was heavy on facts and light on biases (a reasonable combination, I feel).

If this is any indication of the reporting which we at Glendon may expect next year, I am sure that the editor(s) can look forward to a blood-blooding issue to all Glendonites, but it is certainly a pressing problem for many (especially media students) and I feel it is a step in the right direction as far as pulling up Pro Tem's collective socks.

My hope is that you and your staff will keep producing this sort of article next September.

Yours truly,
Bob Williams
What's Cooking With OFS

Winners Take Note
N.B. Would all successful candidates and acclaimed candidates please submit a brief resume of their platforms or "acceptance speeches" to the Pro Tem Office by Monday, March 26th.

Bilingual Exchange Scholarship

 Winners have completed at least one (1) year of a university degree program.
 3. Candidates must have an average grade of B+.
 4. Candidates must have an aptitude to pursue their studies in their second language.

The Robert & Mary Stanfield Foundation Bilingual Exchange Scholarships in Canadian Studies.

Two scholarships valued at $2,500 will be awarded for one academic year. One to a man, one to a woman who wish to pursue their Canadian Studies in a language other than their own at a Canadian university which is a member or affiliated to a member of the Association of Universities and Colleges of Canada.

To ensure that there is a bilingual exchange, the following university authorities (Vice-President Academic, Vice-President Administration, or Registrar) must certify on the application form that the candidate meets the following requirements:
1. Candidates must be Canadian citizens.
2. Candidates must be undergraduates who have taken at least one year of study in their first language in the first four years of study.
3. Candidates must have an aptitude for learning in a second language.
4. Candidates must have an interest in learning in their first language.
5. The following Canadian and relevant fields of study: i.e. Canadian Northern Studies, Canadian Plains Area Studies, French-Canadian Studies, Indian-Eskimo Studies, Native Studies, Canadian Politics, French Canadian Language and Literature, North American Literature, English, History, Canadian Economics.

A wine for all reasons. Mateus Rosé.

Product of Portugal. Marketed across Canada by Canadian Specialty Distillers Ltd.
Tout le monde au lit......le matin

par A. Ninet

L'espace qu'occupe cet article aurait du être blanc mais Marney m'a demandé de le remplir pour des raisons de mise en page chaque page du journal doit contenir de la publicité et de la prose. Vous voyez la publicité en bas et voici la prose. Il est regrettable que des impératifs d'ordre temporel et spatial régissent la création, mais que voulons-nous, "I faut ce qu'y faut!"

Comme je suis fatigué aujourd'hui, parce que je devais me lever de bonne heure ce matin, j'ai l'idee de vous parler justement du lever matinal, ma bête noire et celle de plusieurs de mes amis.

On a beaucoup vanté les mérites du lever matinal: effets bienfaisants sur le système nerveux, besoin de la nature le matin, air pur. Je pense sincèrement que cette idée est devenue rétrograde dans un monde moderne, en constant devenir.

Restons au lit le matin! Au moins jusqu'à 11 heures, qui est, je crois, une heure raisonnable pour un nord-américain moyen. De toute façon, on assiste à une régression du lever matinal à tous les niveaux. Une récente enquête menée au Québec, révèle qu'à près Robert Bourassa et Jean Drapeau, la chose que les gens aiment le plus est de se lever le matin.

Un autre sondage effectué simultanément à Toronto, à Québec, et à Paris montre que les anglo-saxons sont moins paresseux que les québécois mais que ceux-ci sont plus matinaux que les français. On a d'ailleurs souvent dit que le Québec est à cheval sur deux cultures.

Il existe beaucoup d'avantages à la grasse matinée. Le matin, on peut se lever sans se précipiter et, par la même occasion, ménager son argent et son estomac. Si les québécois se levant plus tard, on assistait vraisemblablement à un baby-boom et à une deuxième revanche des berceaux. Plus besoin du Bill 22.

En fait, bien des catastrophes historiques auraient pu être évitées si certaines personnes étaient restées au lit le matin. Si Charlemagne avait été plus enclin à la paresse matinale, il n’aurait peut-être pas inventé l'école. Si les soldats français à Québec en 1760 n'étaient levés de bonne heure, nous n’aurions pas la chance d’habiter aujourd'hui un pays bilingue et biculturel et je ne parlerais pas anglais.

Pensez-vous qu'il se lève de bonne heure? Non! Un jour il s'est dit: "Je vais inventer les hommes pour qu'ils se lèvent le matin pendant que je dors tard!" Pensez donc, faire la grasse matinée sans pouvoir penser qu'il y a des imbeciles qui se lèvent, ce n'est pas drôle.

On a prétendu que le lever tardif était l'épanouissement des riches et des étudiants. Rien de plus faux. Les riches se lèvent à l’aube afin d’augmenter leur fortune. Quant aux étudiants, d’ailleurs, on les vît s’agiter comme des fourmis. Mals s'ils n’avaient pas de cours le matin, ils pourraient faire bonne figure. Il faudrait ainsi contribuer à l'avancement de la société en général. On se demande d'ailleurs quand le Conseil étudiant se penchera sur ce problème. Bref, je réclame le droit de dormir tous les matins. Et ce que je fais la veille ne vous regarde pas!

-------------------------------

LETTERS CONT'D

Faulty constitution

Recently, I applied (nominated myself) for two positions in the up-coming elections at Glendon College. These were Student Senator and member of C.O.S.A. The resulting events led me to the following three conclusions:

First, that candidates should be nominated by a fellow student member and that the nomination should be accompanied by ten signatures of witnesses who feel the nominee is competent and serious in his or her pursuit of election. I cannot understand the idea of nominating one’s self.

Secondly, that the Glendon College Student Union (G. C. S. U.) constitution be amended so that one person may run for more than one position, provided that the positions are on separate councils. In my case, I was not allowed to run for both positions, whereas, it is perfectly acceptable for me to serve on both the Senate and C.O.S.A., provided I am elected to them as a result of separate elections. This seems quite absurd.

Thirdly, I would like to strongly protest the arbitrary manner with which my two nominations were treated. Since two of us were running for Senator, and since there were several positions vacant on C.O.S.A., my nomination for Senator was thrown out and the other nominee was “acclaimed” in that position. I have been “acclaimed” in C.O.S.A. This was all done without consultation between G.C.S.U. reps and myself. I was informed of this shuffling of nominations after they were done and was told that I “should have read the constitution beforehand”. Since I had not, it was therefore implied that I should not even expect to have been asked which of the two positions I would prefer to have run for.

This arbitrary filling of vacant positions leaves me with a sour outlook on Glendon student politics, even before I have sat in on one meeting. My one compensation, I have been informed, is to run for position on Faculty Council, where things really get done. Well, we shall see in September if that really is the case or not. Hopefully, Faculty Council will be an improvement over our illustrious Student Council.

Rob Williams

Newly "acclaimed" C.O.S.A. member

-------------------------------

YOU DON'T HAVE TO MAKE A CAREER OUT OF A SUMMER JOB.

Once upon a time there was a student who selected herself out of a summer job. Oh no, we're not just picking on girls. We've seen guys do it too. She wanted to be an architect. This kid had something to do with architecture. None came along that year and by the time she decided to settle for something else it was too late. All the jobs were gone. So was her first year's tuition.

Moral: Don't hold out for the impossible dream.

Who knows your Canada Manpower Centre for Students might introduce you to a real field. Maybe you'll have a summer job so much you'll want to make a career out of it someday.

-------------------------------
Dear Maddog

I have a very tricky problem. I come from a long line of profuse perspirers. In other words, we are champion sweaters. My mother walks around the house all summer with a towel around her neck because she sweats too much. My married sister says that when she goes anywhere to play cards the dressessays, “Let’s use the old cards. Anne gets them wet anyway.”

I hate to hold a girl’s hand in a movie because I’m always so wet. Is there a cure for this or is my case hopeless?

Sign
Ban wears off
Dear B.W.O.

Perspiration seems to really run in your family. Talk to your doctor; he may be able to help you. If he can’t, forget it. It may be something you’ll just have to sweat out.

Maddog Wortle

Dear Maddog,

It was just last week that someone told me that my head looked like a french-fried avocado. I have further been informed that my head (over-sized as it may seem) resembles a boiled potato, grilled watermelon, a diced cucumber, and the most insulting of all, a cheese fondue. It’s really very embarrassing. What’s wrong with me?

Hortence

dear Horty

Why are so many of us being killed in car accidents?”

It’s a fact. Last year the 16 to 24 age group accounted for more than one-third of all drivers killed on Ontario roads. And nearly 40% of all drivers involved in fatal accidents were our age. Maybe we can’t change the world but we can change this.

We’ve got to slow down.

We’ve got to live.

Think about it.

Ministry of Transportation and Communications

March 24, 1976.  PRO TEM 5
In spite of several defeats in several elections, the CCF-NDP has had a very important influence on Canada. In a sense, our society is now more civilized than it was when our party began its work.

When I started my activity at McGill University, as an undergraduate, and in the Montreal and Quebec Labour Parties, there were literally none of the programs that make life for the poor, the ill and the old a little less formidable.

The whole program of social welfare is under debate, in larger measure, to the existence of the CCF-NDP. Also, you can readily see that acceptance by the Canadian people of collective responsibility --- of government intervention in the economy --- is very much more positive than it was some years ago.

Thirdly, I think that the level of political discussion in Canadian might have been much higher now if it wasn't for the CCF-NDP. I chose my words carefully. I am not suggesting that it is always at a very high level, but it is to the credit of this party to change the existence of our party.

More recently, having had the opportuniy of participating for about 40 years in that kind of development was worth while. But despite some of the difficulties one had to endure.

Welfare costs cause problems for old parties

I of course admit that a problem has been created by the slow development of the system within the confines of the present society and the way in which the old political parties look at it. It seems as though the old parties do not want to do anything. They don't mind if it won't work, but they don't want to do anything.

The very dramatic change in our society since the Second World War has produced a much greater burden on the provincial governments.

The means of meeting these provincial obligations are not as great as they might be, and that's where the federal-provincial quarrel comes in.

So, when you put all or this together, you have to do something about the cost. You can do it the way Stephen Lewis, I think, would have done, or you can do it the way Bill Davis would like to do it.

(Judging from the events of the last day or so, I'm not quite sure whether another gentleman has made up his mind just what he is going to do.)

You lower the cost, for example, of Medicare either by closing hospitals, as Davis does, or by changing the method of delivery of medical care; changing the fee for service to something more sensible, as far as the doctor is concerned; developing paramedical services. Instead of paying the doctor every time a patient comes in, you might pay for all of those.

I am in this CCF party and, from the outside, some of us think, 'Why are we here? What are we doing? Why does the capitalist system do this, and we have to come up with a system to make it better?'

In our society, either the physician does everything, or he charges for everything, or he charges for everything that's necessary in the system. The question is: can he be subject to any kind of social discipline because I have shot my mouth off against the system.

You could reduce hospital costs by organizing convalescent hospitals in a wing or floor of existing buildings. These would require fewer nurses and less medical attention; thus, avoiding the immense cost of regular hospital beds.

But to institute these fairly innovative methods, you have to cope with the fallacy of the doctors, the specialists and a good many other entrenched ones, if I can put it that way. And Davis has to be careful not to be a socialist, or the existence of our party.

There is a continuing debate about how such changes in society could be accomplished best.

I began to become interested in changing society when I was 16 years old. I drifted into the Communist movement.

I accepted the road of non-violent change and change which takes place roughly with the consent of the people — and it's very rough of course.

Now, when one says a violent change, it doesn't mean that everyone is shot into conformity. And when one says a non-violent change, it doesn't mean that occasionally there are not outbreaks of violence.

The human struggle doesn't go along a straight line without any deviation. The fact of the matter is that where you have had revolutions followed by dictatorships, the same problems that face our capitalist society are faced by them. But a lot more people have been destroyed, than in our kind of society.

I like a place where I can shoot my mouth off, and where I am not subject to any kind of state discipline because I have shot my mouth off against the system.

A place where I can shoot my mouth off.

In our society, there have been times when people have been denied their rights — yes, but not all the people. And that's the rest of the people went to bat for them.

Eventually Section 98 of the Criminal Code, banning membership in a communist party, was removed. Eventually trade unions were given rights under the law after a great many fights, and struggles, and heads opened, and people in jail.

I see nothing in the developments in the Soviet Union, the East European countries, China or Cuba that suggests people there will be able to, in the foreseeable future, to criticize the basis of the regime with relative impunity.

In this case 'don't have impunity in any society, and when the state feels itself threatened, it will respond. When this happens, our society will feel itself threatened by the actions of ordinary people, rather than corporations. In other societies it will be the opposite.

Corporate power must be challenged now

Having the right to shoot off my mouth doesn't produce greater equality in Canada or other necessary changes.

Nevertheless, surely one of the purposes of life is the opportunity to express one's self. I want to do it this way. Though I don't say it's the best way.

Social democratic parties and governments face a difficult time in the future and I am damned if I know how to answer our problems, quite honestly. What has happened, I think, is that the reforms that could be achieved in western society — without even reversing the viability of the capitalist class, to use shorthand, the viability of the corporate power — have been achieved, by and large.

We have reached the position in all western countries where the attack has got to be on the corporate power.

So I consider having had the opportunity of participating for about 40 years in the kind of development was worth while. But despite some of the difficulties one had to endure.
Glendon Elections Act: Fact or Fiction?

After a rather maddening 24 hours, the Pro Tem staff has finally come up with an article on the Glendon spring elections. It does not, as one might imagine, concern the candidates and their platforms, or criticisms thereof, but rather the various interpretations of existing rules and regulations regarding nomination, electioneering and voting procedures. The following is an excerpt from the G.C.S.U. Elections Act of Jan. 1971 as amended in Nov. 1975 which directly concerns Pro Tem.

Article 5 Campaigning and Publicity:

Section 1: There shall be no campaigning after midnight of the day preceding the election. Campaigning is to start when nominations are officially closed.

Section 4: Limitations: (a) Newspapers: one ad of 2 inch column per week per candidate in any University newspaper.

If one takes this article section by section, very interesting situations arise. Take Section 1 for example. We understand that this means the candidates may not campaign after the specified time, nor may anyone campaign for them, but are we to read between the lines that Pro Tem may not even publish a news story regarding the elections or criticisms of candidates? Or is it possible that personal whim dictates the interpretation of this section? It is hard to believe that major newspapers are denied the right to publish material about candidates or to support a specific candidate or party; yet this week, Pro Tem finds itself unable to publish criticism of candidates' platforms, an analysis of last week's general meeting or any matter, even the names of the candidates.

It is rather ironic that while the paper is prohibited from publishing such material, there are many campaign posters still in evidence around York Hall. (The time of this writing is Tuesday, March 23 at 5:30 p.m. and the voting has been on for more than 8 hours.) A reporter was informed that the posters only had to be removed from the immediate vicinity of the polling station. A rather interesting interpretation of Article 5, Section 1.

Upon referral to the constitution, we find that Section 2 concerns publication of the fact that an election is imminent. Section 3, however, suggests referral to The Elections Act folder. Such a folder is a rare animal therefore, we are unable to discuss its content. (We fear the above folder has disappeared from the face of the earth.)

Section 4 refers to censorship. Are the students of Glendon, members of the electorate not to be allowed to read presentations of ideas and criticisms of platforms?

Regardless of recent tendencies, we had assumed that we were still living in a democratic country. If someone is given the right to vote, surely he should be given the right to choose for whom to vote.

Ah yes — the general meeting! It seems the meeting was more of a surprise to the candidates than to anyone else. Some were informed while eating lunch that their speech was to be 2 or 3 minutes — was that enough time to prepare something?

There is very little point to assessing blame in this situation. The C.R.O. (Chief Returning Officer) can do little but interpret the rule as he sees fit. Perhaps a little coherence of opinion from the G.C.S.U. and a few amendments to the Elections Act could clear up what looks like a rather sticky situation for many.

Canada would be swallowed without Quebec

The only way you can gain the government is by electoral activity. Unfortunately, however, the educational activity that the CCF did so much of in now drying up. Society, and particularly the universities, have changed since the '30s, when I could write to one of the university's and get a memorandum on any issue. Now all the professors who are with us are busy doing their own research, to do their own writing, to do their own publishing.

As for the future of the NDP federally, the prospects in the provinces west of Quebec are extremely bright, and have become much more encouraging in the Atlantic provinces. So long as Quebec nationalism and separatism are strong, we are going to have difficulty sinking roots in that province and hence convincing Canadians we are a credible alternative to the government.

We don't want to see Quebec separate from Canada, because if it does there will be neither Canada nor Quebec. That's the best way of having what is now Canada swallowed up by the United States, one way or another.

Regarding my own status in the party, I am now an elder statesman who is occasionally consulted by NDPers across the country. They find out what I say so as to know that the opposite is probably right road. Also, I am able to warn them after 40 years of participation, that the voters, like their gods, move in mysterious ways.

Let's discuss it!

Weekdays 3:05 Join CFRB’s Bill Kennedy as he interviews Canadians and world leaders. Rather make the news.

More than an Engineer.

Our Military Engineers are very specialised people. They design and build bridges, airstrips, base facilities, supervise and maintain all kinds of equipment on our bases around the world. It's a very special job. One that involves working with men. Guiding them. Training them. A job where you can apply your knowledge in all kinds of challenging situations

If you're into engineering, we can get you into something more than just an office job. An Officer's job, where you can develop your full potential.

Give it some thought. We can give you plenty of opportunities to use your specialised knowledge in some very unusual ways.

Send this coupon for more information.

Directorate of Recruiting & Selection, National Defence Headquarters, Box 8989, Ottawa, Ontario K1A 0K2

Please send me more information about opportunities in the Canadian Forces for Military Engineers.

Name ____________________________
Address __________________________
City ____________________________ Prov. ______ Postal Code ____________
University __________________________
Course ____________________________ Year __________________________

C.F.R.B. 1010

GET INVOLVED WITH THE CANADIAN ARMED FORCES.
Canada would be swallowed without Quebec

ily way you can gain the government is tural activity. unately, however, the educational ac-that the CCF did so much of is now up. Society, and particularly the unions, have changed since the 30s, when I write to one of the university's and get standard on any issue.

It is rather ironic that while the paper is prohibited from publishing such material, there are many campaign posters still in evdence around York Hall. (The time of this writing is Tuesday, March 23 at 5:30 p.m. and the voting has been on for more than 8 hours.) A reporter was informed that the posters only had to be removed from the immediate vicinity of the polling station. A
The bookstore will never grow and change unless it accepts criticism. However, Ava personally refuses negative (destructive) criticism. "If you have something to say about the stock and its selection, etc., say it, but also give suggestions and alternatives."

The aim, over the last two years, has been to get a better quality line and variety of books. The first place to start is the reference section. This should be the most important aspect of the store but even the cookbook section is larger! The amount of time and energy required to build a reference section of any value to the student is impossible under the present conditions. It would necessitate research but there is no fourth staff member to take on that responsibility. As it stands at the moment, nine-tenths of the work done for the trade room is done by Ava after hours and/or at home.

The names of good reference books are well guarded secrets. They are not advertised but have to be learned with time and experience and through the grape-vine. Such information could and should come from students. There is no academic backbone to the store. They make their best trade sales at the end of term when students buy books for their leisure reading.

Ava is currently working toward bringing in three new lines of quality paperbacks. But unless there are less rip-offs and guarantee on returns there is more student body response (if she doesn't know what the demand is, how can she supply it?), how is the trade room going to improve?

price mark-ups

A major student complaint has been over the price mark-ups on books — you know, where one or two coloured stickers have been placed over the cover price of the book. There are two reasons for mark-ups. When books are imported, the price of the book is raised to cover the duty, postage and shipping charges. (From the U.S. most prices are raised only 10%). The bookseller has to make a minimum of 29% discount on each book to cover the overhead costs. For example, a book has a cover price of $4.95 -- the publisher's suggested retail price and the price the student pays. The bookseller's cost price would be $4.95 minus 29%

Any book from a Fall '75 course which is transferred to a summer course or Fall '76 course will have the same price. But, a new order that comes in for the same title may have a higher price because the publisher raised it. It happens that a book will have its price raised (by the publisher) up to three times even though it is the same edition.

bilingualism?

How does the bilingual question affect the bookstore? Well, as everyone knows, the French text section is most frustrating to students, faculty and Ava. All French books have to be ordered through Champlain or Hachette (distributors) in Toronto, or direct from Montreal or France. "It is true that should the bookstore have a bilingual staff member (that ever- elusive fourth full-time member) it would make the ordering and dealing with French books a hell of a lot easier." But this is not the major difficulty involved. Rather, as in the trade room, it has to do with the publishers' returns policies. Very many don't allow returns at all. The bookstore has no control over the prices on books, whether European or Canadian. The distributors have a complete monopoly. The time delay is another source of difficulty. Books can take anywhere from 8 weeks up to arrive. The distributors are caught in this same bind. "I recognize that I have no personal 'schlep' with these distributors and publishers — even the distributors are dependent on the publishers."

What the store needs is someone bilingual who can handle the phone work and research and in the mean time, a little more cooperation from the Glendon students.
I' Effets des rayons gamma sur les vieux garçons une contribution au fait francophone

La semaine dernière, le Programme d'arts dramatiques de Glendon, section française, présentait "L'Effet des Rayons Gamma sur les Vieux Garçons", une pièce de Paul Zindel, adaptée par Michel Tremblay. Si l'on fait exception du metteur en scène, John van Buren et de la comédienne Lilia Prim-Chorney, tous ceux qui ont participés à la réalisation du spectacle, étaient des étudiants de Glendon, des amateurs.

Je n'ai pas l'intention ici, de jouer les critiques; ce sera l'avenir entraînera.

Je ne vous livrerai que mes impressions de spectateurs, accompagnées de commentaires entendus autour de moi.

On se doit d'abord de féliciter l'équipe technique. La disposition des décors et des sièges nous permettait d'être très proche de l'action. Les éclairagistes et les accessoiristes furent à la hauteur. Toutefois, on doit déplorer le fait que l'ODH se prête mal à la tenue d'une telle pièce car on sentit l'espace derrière les décors. De plus, malgré les demandes répétées de l'équipe technique, il semble qu'on n'ait pas réussi à former le système de ventilation de l'ODH. Le bruit qui s'en échappait est un inconvénient qui doit être corrigé.

Bravo Martine, tu m'as convaincu.

Rita est un personnage qui déplace beaucoup d'air dans la pièce. Sa crise d'epilepsie à la fin au deuxième acte est quelque chose d'impressionnant à voir. Marie-Claire joue avec assurance ce rôle pour lequel elle doit composer beaucoup afin de nous le rendre naturel et convaincant. Chapeau Marie-Claire. Marie-Claire, incarnée par Gilles Paquet, soulevait les rires à chacune de ses apparitions macabres. Il en tremblait encore... Pat Frewer a eu, elle aussi, soulever l'hilarité générale dans le rôle court mais adorabile d'Angeline Birdwhistle.

Merci à John Van Buren et à toute son équipe pour nous avoir donné l'occasion de voir le théâtre en français ici à Glendon. On peut que souhaiter que John récidive l'an prochain et que les étudiants d'ici supportent un contribu­tion au fait francophone à Glendon.

une credit to the dramatic arts programme

by Kevin Fullbrook

One could not help but to become totally immersed in the P.A.D. production, "L'Effet des Rayons Gamma sur les Vieux Garçons."

The placement of the stage below the audience had the effect of giving you the feeling that you were eavesdropping on someone's private life, which indeed you were.

The characters themselves were fully adapted to their roles and did much to enhance the feeling of the crowd, that this was indeed a family.

The most outstanding of the performers was Lilia Prim-Chorney in the role of Béatrice. Her voice, her actions, and her reactions were all cohesive with the character she was portraying. With a few exceptions, the clarity of her expression was impeccable. She was without a doubt the most confident of all the people on the stage and this was most evident in her handling of the kind-like soliloquies which she performed with a Shakespearean calm.

The character of Mathilde, portrayed by Martine Guay, was undoubtedly the most difficult. The character relied not so much on oral expression but on visual expression and the difficulty was increased by the fact that it had to be the expression of an over-mature twelve year old. Although perhaps a little too passive at times, Martine projected fully the conflict of the character caught between her intelligence and her young girl mind and her mercurial familial situation.

There were some technical difficulties in the production such as sound distortion and inconsistent lighting blackouts, but these did not detract from the effectiveness of the play and could be directly attributed to the lack of time that was available to do the production, only six weeks from start to finish.

"L'effet des Rayons Gamma sur les Vieux Garçons" was a massive undertaking and, in my opinion, a credit to the dramatic arts programme of Glendon College.

March 17, 1976.

PRO TEM 9

Carlsberg

The glorious beer of Copenhagen
Bask in the glow of an Arandas Sunrise.

Sunrise
1/2 oz. Arandas Tequila juice of 1/2 lime
4 oz. orange juice
1/2 oz. grenadine
In order, pour into a tall glass over ice.

Arandas Tequila.
The Mixable Mexicano.

---

GET
trypak!
PLUS
A CHANCE TO WIN
$2,000 CASH

singer-guitarist
David Rea
in the Café
Fri & Sat
at 8:00pm
adm $2

le saviez-vous?

La plus longue phrase jamais vue en littérature se trouve dans "Les Misérables" de Victor Hugo et contient 822 mots, 90 virgules, 21 points virgulés et quatre têtes.

---

Hogg’s Hollow—Good Music

by Larry Guimond

"Bluegrass music" is how Hogg’s Hollow are billed but they proved to the full house in the Café on both nights that they are not limited to only bluegrass. Larry Smith, guitarist for the band, calls their type of performance, good music in a good-time setting. The warm reaction that the band received is ample proof of their good music.

Hogg’s Hollow is a relatively new band but its members have been in the music business for the last few years. Similar to a number of new bands, this one lacked some of the confidence that others might have but that was about all. Their musical arrangements, their musical selection, and their stage show all demonstrated that even though the band is young they show the type of promise necessary to make it in the music business.

The band relies on traditional music to a great extent and does an admirable job of bringing this across. The rest of their show is filled out with material by David Bromberg and Norman Blake, contemporary musicians in the traditional fashion.

The strength of the band lies in their instrumentation. All three of them are talented musicians and the great number of instruments played testifies to their musical ability. On the second night of their stay the band seemed to have gained the confidence necessary to take the Café by storm. With this type of confidence and some more experience under their belts, Hogg’s Hollow should be able to go a long way. Their musical approach is refreshing and judging from the audience’s reaction, they were well appreciated.

---

Hogg’s Hollow--Good Music

10 PRO TEM March 24, 1976.
Samedi dernier, une bande de joyeux lurons a décidé de se déplacer jusqu'à soixante-dix kilomètres d'ici pour se costumer et montrer à une foule de personnes que Glendon existe. A Brock University (à Sainte-Catharines) s'est tenue une compétition de karaté qui regroupait tous les intéressés du sud de l'Ontario. Encore une fois, Glendon s'imposa comme leader des arts martiaux.

Le tout a débuté par la démonstration de kata (technique). Dans ce domaine, Ian Alexander termine deuxième après deux éliminations. Puis dans une compétition intercollégiale, nos trois femmes (Diane, Andrée, et Debbie) ont baissé pavillon 47 à 51 dans les points attribués par 5 juges. Ce n'est pas pour se justifier mais deux de nos représentantes étaient des ceintures jaunes et la troisième a appris son premier kata moins de quatre jours avant la compétition. Mais leur courage montra que même si l'on doit affronter trois ceintures bleues, on peut toujours se retirer avec fierté.

Puis vint la bataille (qui ne consiste pas à s'entretuer mais plutôt à démontrer un contrôle aussi parfait que possible des techniques). Les ceintures jaunes de Glendon durent s'avouer vainqueurs dans la première place. C'était sa première compétition. Ensuite, l'euphorie totale s'empara de notre groupe quand, après une superbe démonstration, l'équipe glendoniennne mila terminer première dans la compétition inter-universitaire (Brock fut éliminée malgré ses 4 ceintures brunes). Et finalement notre Sensei, Gary Halls, démontra sa puissance en terminant troisième en kata et premier en kumite (bataille). Le tout se termine avec une petite bière en main, bien content de sa journée.

Voici en bref comment Glendon se classa à Brock:

- Kata: ceintures blanches, jaunes et orange;
- Glendon: 2ème ceintures noires;
- Glendon: 3ème kumite ceintures oranges et vertes;
- Glendon: 1er ceintures noires.

Je vous salue (à la japonaise)
Lou Ymo Rin

N.B. 1) Si vous revenez l'an prochain, je vous conseille de vous joindre à nous. Des émotions fortes, on vous en garantit.
2) Merci à April Gricco pour son support. Elle était la seule spectatrice de Glendon mais heureusement sa présence fut très marquée. Le club de karaté t'aime ben gros, XX

Kata: ceintures blanches, jaunes et orange;
Glendon: 2ème ceintures noires;
Glendon: 3ème kumite ceintures oranges et vertes;
Glendon: 1er ceintures noires.

Rally de la dernière chance la date: Samedi le 3 avril l'heure: Départ à 11 heures l'endroit: au pub naturellement.

Inscription:

Entrées acceptées jusqu’au vendredi 2 avril. On accepte aucune entrée le 1er avril...

Les prix: Trophées et chopes pour les 1, 2 et 3 positions, Pots-de-vins acceptés.

Last Chance Car Rally
Date: Saturday, April 3.
Time: Departure at 11:00 a.m.
Place: from the pub. (naturally!)

Registration: Entries accepted until Friday, April 2, but no entries will be accepted on April 1st.
Registration is 2 dollars or three beers. To register, contact:
- Marc Dupuy in his room or the library.
- Serge Leclerc in the library or in his room (during the day).
- Emeric de Kovachich in the pub or in the library.
- or any other sober Québécois on the campus.

The Best of the Flock

Table Tennis Team Tops

Glendon's formidable Table Tennis Team. Archie a veteran of fifteen years and player comprising of Petra Baiar, Michel Nossal, coach of the Glendon Team, played for below Bernard Leger, Christian De Gayardon De par and lost out in the men's first singles. Foyol, Mike Davine and Juan Archib won he had earlier announced that this would the 1975-76 Intercollegiate Table Tennis Championship be his last tournament and he was hanging pionship held at the Talt Mackenzie gym from up his racket “for good”. Christian and Nos-
March 13th to 17th. Petra Baiar was the most outstanding player singles respectively. did well enough to par- sal playing in the men's and women's second of the tournament as she won the “hat trick” net enough games to help put the team ahead. by capturing the first women's singles, wo- It must be noted that this is the second time men's doubles with Nossal, and then teamed in three years that Glendon has won this title up with Davine to clinch the mixed doubles and they are to be congratulated on their fine title without losing a game. This was Petra's performance first triple crown as she now equals the record. Seeing that most of the members of the team held by Donna Yawching (a former Glendoni) will be lost to Glendon through graduation. In the same championship in 1974. Bernard is sincerely hoped that there will be others Leger and Carlos Vasquez made their debut around to help continue the performance as the as a doubles team and won the men's doubles team has been doing in the past.

Title:

Glendon s'impose comme leader des arts martiaux
MUSIC CONCERT: Norm Sandberg (piano) and Sena JeterСтрумс) present an evening of original music compositions on Friday, March 26 and Sunday, March 28 (repeat performances). Also, Arthur Maloney will speak on his role of Oxford at 7:30 p.m. Admission is free.

ART EXHIBITION: The Art Gallery of Ontario will hold an exhibition of the works of women artists from the 19th and 20th centuries. The exhibition will be open to the public from 10:00 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Admission is free.

MOVIES: The Cinema Lumiere will present a showing of the film "The Man in the Glass Booth" at 8:30 p.m. on Fri., Mar. 26. Admission is $2.

The Toronto Symphony Orchestra will present a concert at 8:00 p.m. on Sat., Mar. 27. Admission is free.