Maggot breed inside the dead bodies of atomic blast victims. Malaria, dengue fever, encephalitis spread around the world. The Black Plague is back. Rabid rats run the deserted streets.

Scenario from the latest Canadian schlock horror film? No, this is a warning from an eminent Boston radiologist in response to Shotgun Ronnie Raygun's claim that a limited nuclear war could be fought in Europe.

The John Wayne of international politics slings out his country's defence policy in a true wild-west fashion. There has never been a weapon that someone hasn't come up with a defence. But it could and the only defence is, well, you shoot yours and we'll shoot ours: at sundown no doubt. Or High Noon.

Even Nixon wasn't as exciting. His term of office was unfair. Regan had years of praxis in Hollywood while Nixon was only flunky for Tail Gunner Joe McCarthy's House of Un-American Activities.

Meanwhile, Soviet President Leonid Breznev is getting worried. NATO would fire a nuclear 'shot across the bow,' or warning detonation of a nuclear weapon over water or uninhabited areas to stall Soviet troops advancing across Europe.

Breznev warns that this strategy would provoke the U.S.S.R. to launch a massive new rearmament program of their own, using more advanced weapons than the SS-20.

Both Reagan and Breznev declare that they are not interested in peace. Reagan states, 'Our goal is peace. It has always been.' Breznev told German magazine Der Spiegel, 'Our main goal is that no one employs nuclear weapons first.'

Breznev continues 'new' kinds of arms are developed that are especially dangerous because they, as the experts say, lower the threshold to war with nuclear weapons, that is make its outbreak more probable.

Especially insidious seem to be the utterances of some strategists and politicians in the West about the advisability of a limited nuclear war and the possibility of winning this war. But if one addresses the heart of the matter, a 'limited' nuclear war cannot exist at all. Once begun in Europe or somewhere else, a nuclear war would unavoidably take on a worldwide character.

Europeans are understandably nervous. October 24-31, Disarmament Week, protests were reminiscent of the 1970s. In Rome there were 300,000 anti-nuclear marchers; in Paris, 100,000; in Brussels, 150,000; in Berlin, 50,000; and in London, 250,000.

And other things they were protesting the trillion dollar U.S. defense budget. True to Reaganomics, social welfare programs are being slashed to pay for Reagan's gurning. Rawhide Reagan hitches up his belt and warns Americans to tighten theirs.

Canada, which spends roughly $6 billion a year on defense, to honor its NATO commitments, recently honored the dead from World War II in Remembrance Day ceremonies. The week before, when 50,000 Torontonians marched to City Hall to protest the impending Third World War, one protest badge-a poppy with a nuclear mushroom cloud attached. To REMEMBER IS TO END ALL WAR: World War II may not leave anyone to remember. Fifty years from now, however, anyone survivors of atomic blast and Black Plague could 'remember' by rewatching it on the T.V. late show. If they are really lucky, maybe they can catch a few Reagan B-flicks on the side.

York University fund

by David Haines

As you may or may not know, York University is initiating a program to solicit funds from society's private sector in order to finance new projects for the university. This program, the "York University Fund" is sure to become the topic of much conversation and debate in the future.

In order to familiarize Glen Don students with the program, I have assembled a list of the projects under consideration, and their corresponding installation costs. The list is as follows:

1) Institutional Projects- $6.4 million:
   a) Life Science research labs- $570,000
   b) Environmental Studies Building- $2,000,000
   c) Atmospheric Observatory- $300,000
   d) Revision of Athletics Complex- $3,000,000
   e) Arboretum Phase One- $400,000
   f) Theatre Workshop- $175,000

2) Computer, Telecommunications and Teaching:
   a) Telecommunications research- $25,000
   b) Computer terminal facility- $28,000
   c) Administrative studies computer center- $160,000
   d) Mini-computer, Arts- $50,000
   e) Mini-computer, Science- $125,000
   f) Microscopes (Biology)- $204,000
   g) Modernization of language labs- $30,000
   h) Biological research labs- $300,000

3) Libraries (2,000,000):
   a) Collections development- $1,500,000
   b) Conversion of card catalogues- $500,000

4) Research ($2,802,000):
   a) Laser research- $264,000
   b) Analytical Biology equipment- $146,000
   c) Molecular biology- $160,000
   d) Nuclear magnetic resonance facility- $262,000
   e) Research in earth science- $100,000
   f) Canadian business research- $250,000
   g) Retailing programs- $200,000
   h) Applied linguistics- $20,000
   i) Centre for Canadian Studies- $60,000
   j) Research in mass communications- $250,000
   k) Studies in violence- $150,000

5) Public Service and National Development ($575,000):
   a) Academic Business Seminars- $50,000
   b) Corporate development seminars- $25,000
   c) Summer institutes- $150,000
   d) Pre-university program- $150,000
   e) York Community Orchestra and Choir- $25,000
   f) York television- $100,000
   g) York Youth day camp- $75,000
   h) Educational Development- ($2,428,000)
   a) Clinical legal education- $400,000
   b) International business program- $400,000
   c) Entrepreneurial business program- $150,000
   d) Studies in language and learning problems- $175,000
   e) Canadian business teaching materials- $125,000
   f) Scholarships- $440,000
   g) Study skills center- $300,000
   h) Rehabilitation services program- $100,000
   i) Internships for administration students- $50,000
   j) Field experience placement- $100,000
   k) Summer science project- $150,000
   l) Research in translation- $10,000
   m) Second language training- $26,000
   n) French at Baie St. Paul- $12,000
   o) Off campus courses- $40,000

This is the breakdown of the "needed" funds. York will also be soliciting for $6,000,000 for supplementary programs, so their total goal is, in fact, $21,000,000! Whether or not this goal is reached remains to be seen, but what is more important is, if this goal is not reached, to which projects will the money go? This remains to be seen.

Perhaps we should all give some consideration to what we would choose if a choice had to be made, for the good of the university, as some of these projects are obviously more important than others. Maybe it should be up to us to decide.
God knows that if the student council did something constructive for student issues, we at Pro Tem would gladly proclaim it. After all, why should students not receive credit? But as long as we disagree with GCSU policies, we will never hesitate to inform the student body of our position. Unfortunately, we have to express our disillusionment once again.

Regardless of who gets elected as V.P. external, that person will only hit a wall. Why? Because a spirit of "I don't give a damn" prevails among GCSU members and, in particular, Perry Mallinos the president. This spirit goes against most of our student militancy but favors "dances." Some members don't even believe there is a dam on the budget cuts at the provincial and federal governmental levels. This spirit was eloquently expressed in the president's last council meeting which focused on cultural affairs (i.e., dances, clean up committees etc.). This is extremely disturbing especially when Perry Mallinos, the one in chief mentioned to council that OFS had organized important events which Glendon should be involved, he only received a silent response.

President Mallinos seems to want to remove Glendon's membership in OFS. How can one assume such a move in face of today's crisis when it is imperative that the students of Ontario stick together? Furthermore, how can one accuse OFS of not doing anything when one does not participate in the organization? Mallinos never really find out about the federation as long as he does not actively participate or truly get involved in its activities. We all know that only united students will be able to affect government policies.

FOR GOD'S SAKE PERRY

Deus sit que le jour où l'association des étudiants fera quelque chose de bien pour les étudiants, ils nous, de Pro Tem, nous em­ presserons de les louanger? Il n'y a aucune raison de ne pas le faire. Mais tant que nous sommes désœuvrés avec les prises de position de l'A.E.C.G., nous nous gêne­ rons souvent sur place pour faire savoir aux étudiants notre position. Et une fois de plus, nous devons prouver notre déception vis-à-vis certains membres de l'A.E.C.G. et en particulier Perry Mallinos.

Quelque soit la personne qui se fasse élire au poste de vice-président aux affaires externes, elle doit se préparer à se ciffer le nez sur un mur. Pourquoi? Parce qu'il règne un esprit de "je m'en fous" chez plusieurs membres du conseil étudiant (notamment le président Perry Mallinos). Ce "je m'en fous" touche le côté mil­ tantisme étudiant. On se fout éperdument des coupures de bourses du gouvernement provincial et du gouverne­ ment fédéral. Nous en avons eu la meilleure preuve à la dernière réunion de l'A.E.C.G.

Le président Perry Mallinos semble penser que c'est au sein du parti externe qu'il doit s'arranger. Pas du tout. Les devoirs qui se fassent aux élèves et aux étudiants sont impératifs. Il est donc important que nous restions membres de la FEO.

Dear Sir,

With respect to Perry Malinios’ Mid-Term reflections, Perry stated that he felt that Glendon eventually should do away with the unilingual stream. Well, to this I say Perry, go to heck! I’m really bummed up when someone like Perry Malinios who studied in the unilingual stream says that Glendon should do away with that stream. Why does he want to deprive others from the many advantages of Glendon? It makes me sick knowing that the man we elected to represent us wants to eliminate our chances of the things he has a chance at.

Thanks alot Perry! I cannot believe that someone who apparently likes Glendon, does not want others to reap the same advantages that Glendon offers, regarding location, size, convenience and a chance for unilingual students to experience another culture from another region of the country. Glendon promotes a sense of unity between the students and faculty by using this as a base for separate identities. We are privileged to be brought together in a beautiful environment and such a learning experience as our own Glendon college.

It seems to me that Perry does not want to happen to Glendon after he goes. As long as he benefited from Glendon’s weaknesses he continues to oppose Glendon by saying that it promotes an unilingual stream.

I believe that Glendon is an unique opportunity that deserves to be preserved. If Perry as the president of the college does not feel that he can properly protect that identity of Glendon, and help it flourish rather than opting for the college does not feel that he can properly protect that identity of Glendon, and help it flourish rather than opting for something else, why don’t he leave? I want him to make a decision as to whether he wants to be a library worker at York University or not. I want him to make a decision as to whether he will support the unilingual stream or not. I want him to make a decision as to whether he will support the student council or not. I want him to make a decision as to whether he will support the union or not. I want him to make a decision as to whether he will support the university or not.

It is apparent that he has felt this way for some time therefore, I feel that Perry has no options left open to him except one: to decline his duties as president for the second term and let someone who will try whole-heartedly to bring Glendon to a higher profile as a leader in the opportunity field of learning another language and be involved in a great experience such as Glendon.

I believe that Glendon is a place that should continue to offer opportunity for all who desire its benefits. Why doesn’t our own student council president feel that way? I cannot explain it.

Andrew Fox

I would like to express my views on the recent CUEW strike and also address the Glendon College Student Council. I also hope that in future you will refer to the Student Council as council and not GCSU because the GCSU includes all students and not only those that are elected representatives.

Many students will now be saying that CUEW once again dumped on students and quality of education for more money. Even as a student, and a lighter workload in terms of grading assistance. I do not share this view. CUEW is very concerned about cutbacks and the quality of education. I have come to this conclusion by spending many hours on the picket line with them. They were on strike for a week without pay and with little support from students and faculty (apologies for those who were supportive). The union, with its limited backing, was in no position to continue an effective campaign except for stopping mail, food, and beer delivery. The latter being the bigger concern of the student council.

I see the blame for the failure of this strike to be put squarely on the backs of the students, the faculty, and not to mention our glorious student council with its “no, but maybe” position. We as students must suffer by receiving a sub-par education with congested class-rooms. Many CUEW members must have thought when ratifying the contract, that students would continue to fail. Yet, YUDA do not care enough about quality of education and why should they? They say they fight virtually alone? Their workload will not be substantial without a new settlement.

The lack of support did not help CUEW at the bargaining table. If Glendon students and YUDA members cared about quality of education as much as we say we do, we should have bombarded the administration at the picket line and any other way in force so our united message could clearly be heard. I would like to commend you on your excellent editorial of last week. The weakness it had was not being non-committal, choos­ing the easy way out and extremely hypocritical.

In Solidarity,

Braden P.S. Whatever happened to the “Scrip List” council?

York University Fund: In Pursuit of Tomorrow

This letter is to inform you that I will not contribute to the campaign and to give you some of the reasons why. I happen to believe in education and good education for everyone; my generation was raised with hopes and promises for the future that are turning sour rapidly. Just looking at who can now afford to go to university and the decrease in quantity and quality of services tells you what the priorities of people leading this country are.

Being a library worker at the University allows me to see that the students not only the ones having to pay and suffer from the cutbacks and changes of priorities. As an employee of the University, I am responsible for services can, at the best, make you less threatened by the cutbacks (just last month 16 jobs were made redundant in my bargaining unit). We are not only facing the situation where we have less employees to do the same services to a larger community (higher enrolment), but we are also facing important technological changes, the effects of which are not particularly easy (to say the least) for women in the already underpaid clerical sector. Not only are we, York University employees, lucky when our salary can defuse the inflation rate, but we are also facing (and I experienced it last May myself) a situation where jobs are downgraded despite increased workload and adaptation to new and more sophisticated tech-

Read through the list of words. You'll find these words in all directions - horizontally, vertically, diagonally, and backwards. Once found, draw a circle around each of the letters of that word in the puzzle, then strike it off the list. Circling it will show you a letter has been used but will leave it visible should it also form part of another word. When all letters of all listed words are circled, you'll have the given number of letters left over and they'll spell out the hidden word.

Solution:
Computers at Glendon

By Wayne Burnett

Computers are becoming more and more a part of our society and Glendon may take two big steps to catch up with the times. Currently there are two proposals from Glendon that would provide us with computer facilities and a new programme in computer analysis.

Currently, Glendon has one course in computer programming employing the APL and Basic languages and another course existing on the books only, the APL-Basic course is addressed to the social sciences and is part of the social sciences division of the department of General Education. The programme is quite possible without the blackboard and white video monitors hooked into another video terminal located in the T.D.T.

The proposal almost met approval last year. As if in anticipation of better facilities the course was started with an enrolment of about 90 compared to last year's 60. As well courses in sociology, psychology, English history, political science and economics use the Glendon facilities as do researchers.

To go along with all this new equipment is a proposed computer analysis program in the bilingual stream. The professional concentration will be available as either a major or a minor. The graduate of the programme should be able to leave Glendon and enter a position in computer analysis or programming in either English or French.

Pierre Garigue, the son of Principal Garigue and a technologist at the 'bad guys' (U of T) computer department, knows of some languages with key words in Spanish or French. He believes that it is unimportant in what language the few (approx. 36) key words of a computer language are. In this case it would be relatively easy to add an extension to the compiler (the programme in a computer that translates a human computer language like APL or Fortran to a language the computer understands) to allow for key words or error messages in other languages such as French of Spanish.

The computer analysis package proposal worth about $350,000 over 3 years has been sent to the Ministry of Colleges and Universities for consideration. Without this outside funding, the programme is impossible to operate under present funding levels. The computer facilities proposal is being considered by the Academic Development Fund Committee of York. Both proposals look promising presently. The facilities proposal will leave Glendon secure for some time.

The course programme proposal covers three years and after that time, the programme will have to be cost effective. Until then Glendon will, if approved, offer a new, bilingual, professional programme to the students of Glendon.

picket lines. As it were the fate of the Halloween 'e'en dance, in which over 700 dollars of student money had already been committed, was in limbo. In the end, only a valiant effort by Beaver Foods and the pub in committing a portion of their already depleted stock of alcohol enabled council to salvage the dance. However, the student responsibilities to students, their demands, it should be realized that Pro Tern is not a representative body such as the council of the G.C.S.U. Pro Tem obviously does not recognize the role of council and appears to be oblivious to the fact that council's first priority must be the responsible representation of Glendon student interests and not the interests of striking C.U.E.W. members.

Abortion is murder

VANCOUVER (CUP) --

Doctors who perform abortions are murderers interred only in money, a prominent Vancouver gynaecologist charged October 7.

"They (the abortionists) might feel badly about chopping up these babies until the cheque arrives," Dr. Brian Frazer told 25 pro-life students at the University of British Columbia.

Fetuses up to 22 weeks old, which are capable of feeling pain, are being physically dismembered while still in their mother's womb, said Frazer.

"There is no justification for abortion under any circumstances," he said. Frazer rejected the term therapeutic abortion, saying "abortion cannot be therapeutic because nothing is healed."

A woman should bear her rapist's child he said. She should not be forced through pregnancy, but rather helped through it.

"She will be very happy when she delivers her baby and gives it up for adoption," said Frazer.

"Abortion committees are groups of self-declared medical hypocrites who are lying, cheating, conniving and murdering in our midst."

Abortion violates the standards of the Canadian Medical Association which promises to respect human life from conception claimed Frazer.

He would like to "see that these foul abortionists are thrown into jail for life" he added.

"I have my mind on a narrow tunnel (narrow-minded)," said Frazer. "Abortion is murder."

Rachel Pratt.
Small-town girl out to conquer the big city.

Pick the winner:

The city

Large cities may not be for everyone. But to Rachel there's no place more exciting or richer with opportunities.

Maybe she is a little starry-eyed, but Rachel has a far more worrisome problem. She's on a social merry-go-round.

Her day isn't complete unless she joins her friends for some pub-crawling after work. Much too often, pubs lead to parties. She's getting too little sleep, eating poorly, and her boss now regrets hiring her.

Rachel thinks it's all a great adventure. She forgets why she first came to the city. Truth is, unless she wise up and backs away soon, small-town girl may very well wind up big-city loser.

Rachel

Large cities may not be for everyone. But to Rachel there's no place more exciting or richer with opportunities.

Maybe she is a little starry-eyed, but fortunately for Rachel, she's a realist as well.

She's made some wise choices, including her decision on drinking. Not too often, not too much, is Rachel's motto. That goes for beer, wine or spirits, no matter where she is or with whom.

The interesting thing is, her moderate lifestyle hasn't made Rachel less popular. Nor has it made the city a less exciting place. It's just making her stronger. Strong enough to win.

Mac Eachen cuts EPF

OTTAWA (CUP) --

Student leaders are claiming a temporary victory in halting the federal cutback drive for funding to social services after Thursday night's budget. But a chain of federal proposals for transfer funding and announced reductions in areas of funding to provinces have set the stage for an uncertain future.

Some highlights from Finance Minister Allan MacEachen's budget:

Starting in April, 1982, the federal government wants money paid to the provinces for post-secondary education and health services (called Established Programs Financing) to be "equalized on a per capita basis," with each province receiving the same amount of funding per resident. The move means a federal reduction in that area of $97 million in over five years, according to budget estimates.

The program of compensating the provinces for tax money they lose under the federal taxation system will be ended next April. Since 1972, this revenue guarantee compensation payment has paid about $5.5 billion to the provinces, and in the coming five years its saving will amount to $5.3 billion saved by the federal government.

In total, the EPF adjustments and ending of tax compensation payments will mean that $5.7 billion will be chopped from the existing transfer programs in the coming five years.

But MacEachen's budget outlines federal tax changes that will, he says, allow provincial revenues to climb by $3.7 billion in the five year period producing a net impact of $1.9 billion in reduced money available to provinces after the switches.

The budget text says that removal of the revenue compensation plan would not reduce overall funding to the social services, since these transfers were not designed to finance health and education.

The budget included the announcement that the government wants federal-provincial arrangements for the financing of post-secondary education and human resources development to be renegotiated by March 1983, effectively extending the EPF plan an extra year while beginning new talks with provincial finance ministers. If no EPF deal can be struck by the March 1983 deadline, warns the government proposal the federal government could freeze future per capita EPF cash transfers for post-secondary education at the 1982-83 level.

In his speech to the House of Commons, MacEachen stressed that transfers to the provinces over the next five years are still projected to grow at least as fast as the rest of our expenditures. (Note: the analysis means that growth would still happen although it would be significantly less than under current transfer programs.)

In pursuit of restraint said MacEachen, "I am asking no more of the provinces than I have imposed on the government of Canada."

Richard Belfaire, researcher for the Canadian Association of University Teachers (CAUT), said they think the budget was something of a victory, "in that, we had seen scenarios of much bigger cuts targeted for post-secondary education this year."

Belfaire said CAUT us now concerned that the provinces are able to provide the resources for education funding. "Clearly, there's a big stick here. The government says that if no satisfactory agreement is reached by March 1983, the government will essentially freeze funding."
Gledon at U.N.

The world turned its hopes for peace and solutions for acute poverty to Toronto on the November 6-8 weekend. The University of Toronto Model Assembly (UTMA) took on the job of the United Nations and argued its way to a number of important resolutions.

Some of the most interesting delegates were, in fact, Glendonites. Students from Jordan, Columbia and Democratic Kampuchea were all representatives by students who debated gloriously for the alienable rights of man—though the view of which rights was coloured by the foreign policy of the country each person represented.

That was the most interesting and often frustrating aspect of the assembly; all delegates must honestly represent the countries they would take, whether the delegate agrees or not.

This requirement put the delegate from Democratic Kampuchea into trouble when the U.S. delegate accused him of misrepresenting the foreign policy of Democratic Kampuchea. The American delegate went so far as to move a motion of censure against the Democratic Kampuchea. Fortunately, the delegate was able to defend himself.

The Jordanian delegation had another problem that occurred frequently. The delegation spent days on a speech on the Palestine issue only to have the resolution withdrawn before the speech was heard. They had to resort to sending nasty but diplomatic notes to the U.S.A. delegation.

The topics ranged widely. The dismal situations in Afghanistan, Palestine Democratic Kampuchea and South Africa were discussed. Arm reductions and superpower domination were hot items for smaller nations. The delegates argued with excellent knowledge of the matters, obviously the result of many hard hours of research by the students, mostly U of T students, University of Toronto School students and Glendonites. The majority of students at the UTMA are Poli. Sci., economics or international relations majors.

After two and a half days of very serious discussion, the minds started to crack. Idi Amin was nominated to be president of the next UTMA. As well, the USA and USSR joined together to form POWER and immediately attacked China.

The whole event was concluded at a delicious banquet held at U of T. A number of awards were handed out but unfortunately Glendon was blanked out.

Plans are now underway for Glendon to hold its own model Security Council. Anyone interested in discussing nuclear arms limitations, human rights, food shortages, mass murderers.....

R.G.'s financial woes

There must be a few people who are wondering what happened to CKRG. A non-profit radio station called CKRG is used in the Glendon campus but this station, in its original form, has disappeared and what remained of it has evolved into the present Radio-Glendon.

CKRG was managed by former Glendon student Alan Lysaght, who combined the efforts of Glendon students and alumni to operate one of the most interesting, original and versatile radio stations in Toronto.

Unfortunately, CKRG encountered many problems in attempting to obtain an FM license.Essentially, it suffered from a lack of funding, and this lack of money caused the station to stop broadcasting music in July of 1980. CKRG never started up operations (after that month) and manager Alan Lysaght and his close associates (referred to as the Board of Directors) decided to move the majority of the existing equipment out of the Glendon Hall studios as a safety precaution against being stolen.

Thus we arrive at the major problem affecting Radio-Glendon. Apparently, some of the equipment (valued at over $50,000) taken by CKRG was paid for by York University and Glendon students. This equipment has not been returned to the Glendon Hall studios (after almost a year of waiting) and therefore the present Radio-Glendon is suffering because it has to get by with the old, second rate equipment left behind by CKRG.

The student council of the past five or six years failed to obtain written contractual agreements from CKRG manager Alan Lysaght stating that all equipment in the radio station was to remain property of the GCSU (and thus be kept in the Glendon Hall studios for future use by Glendon students). Therefore the equipment taken away by CKRG almost certainly never be returned, and Radio-Glendon will have to manage with what was left behind by CKRG until the Student Council provides Radio-Glendon with more money for this year.

Ladies’ night
by Wayne Burnett

One hopes that plays put on by mature university students have some important purpose. It may be to practise the art of theatre. Or it may be to provide a lesson or two inside an entertaining framework. The three short plays and two monologues on women certainly met the latter criteria.

The characters were often well realized. Although the characters were often impossible ‘a little bit of humanity shone through.

The first play’s setting was a little too stereotypical with pantyhose and women’s magazines strewn about and the hurt over the breakup of the relationship was under-enthusiastic. But the obese char-acter collector was a joy to behold as she ‘boogied down’ in a most untypical style.

The second play was barely hampered by the script reading of last minute replacement Nicole Shindler due to the illness of the regular actress. Otherwise, this play was probably the best all night. The only confusing part was the fact that the program mentioned a scene that was missing.

The third play was a little difficult to follow but became clearer after some thought. A brief introduction would have been helpful.

I liked the monologues almost as much as the second play. They were straightforward yet startling or insightful enough to be thought-provoking.

All in all, the women, ah, people did a fantastic job.

La Grenouillère, ça opère!
par Carl Hétu
Il s'écoule exactement un mois et 17 jours depuis le spectacle de Pourquoi Pas? à aujourd'hui. Mais soyez sans crainte, la venue va bien s'arrêter. A vrai dire, il se terminera samedi le 21 novem- bre à 23h30 avec le spectacle de Napoléon et les Angloids.
Si vous vous rappelez que les membres de la Grenouillère (François Moniz, Daniel Mercier et Carl Hétu) se sont croisés les bras durant tout ce temps, démarquez-vous parce que le spectacle de samedi est en marche plus de deux mois déjà.
Pour ceux qui se ne rappelleraient pas ou qui n'avaient tout simplement pas de ressort, Na- poléon et les Angloids avaient donné un spectacle au mois de mai, avec le plus que les initiautes qui accomplirent leurs noms. La deuxième amélioration fut d'insérer de plusieurs nou- veaux acteurs dans leur répertoire. L'année passée nous avions goûté à Plume, à Pi- ché, à Beaud Dommage aux Beatles. Cette année, Harmonium, les Rolling Stones, Florence Séguin et plusieurs autres y seront ajoutées. Il y a maintenant un mois et demi qu'ils pratiquent sans relâche et croyez moi, ils en promettent à cœur joie pour samedi soir.

Les Angloïds
Si vous croyez que les Angloïds avaient seul lieu la première réunion avec les personnes intéressées à faire du théâtre, Jean Vinet, directeur de pro- ductions Théâtrales Françaises Glendon 81-82, dirigeait les débats. A ce moment, on ne savait pas encore quelle serait la pièce jouée. Le choix des acteurs fut basé à part un rôle qui demande des auditions. Le problème était plutôt d'avoir assez d'acteurs et de techniciens. Les décors furent une création collective. Pour la toute première de la pièce, il manquait des acteurs et on s'employa en trou- per par les applau- dissements que vous leur donneriez lors des 2 représentations.

Plus de deux mois depuis et on s'émessa d'en trouver deux fois par semaine pour chacune des 3 parties de la pièce. La dernière semaine, les répétitions s'échelonnaient tous les soirs, du dim-anche au mercredi, jour de la répétition générale.
Cette occupation demande des heures de travail parfois pénibles, parfois gais.
Mais leur efforts seront récompensés par les applau- dissements que vous leur donneriez lors des 2 représentations.

Nuits blanches
Par Suzanne Lévesque
Le 30 octobre dernier se tenait au salon des professeurs le lancement du re- cueil de contes - Nuits Blanches. L'auteur, M. Pierre-Paul Karch, enseigne la littérature Canadienne depuis plusieurs années, ici même à Glendon. M. Karch est natif de St. Jérôme au Québec.
Une vingtaine de personnes ont assisté à cet événement, la plupart étant des professeurs. Cependant, j'ai été étonnée de constater la faible représentation du corps étudiant car cinq seulement ont osé faire acte de pré- sence.

Entre une gorgée de vin et une bouche de foie gras, le professeur Karch nous a ad- résse quelques mots relatifs au contenu de son recueil. 'Nuits Blanches' traite de l'hostilité entre l'homme et son milieu comprenant les humains, les insectes, les plantes, etc...

Le titre exprime bien l'idée de la pièce se composant de 3 parties indépendantes mais reliées pour former une présentation à la télévision. On peut y trouver un fil conducteur dans le sens qu'on représente 3 types de femmes. La première, Berthe a passé le cap de la quarante- ans. Son rêve de devenir un jour une actrice est saccagé. De ce fait, elle se retranche dans son petit monde intérieur. La deuxième, Carlotta est plus compliquée. Elle reçoit son mariage avec Jonny Mangoon mais d'un autre côté, elle ne peut le laisser seul. La dernière surnommée 'la femme' a accompli ses désirs mais est encore insatisfaite. Voici un petit aperçu du thème choisi.

Soccer team final report (part I)
by Gregory Volk
Wednesday, October 28
third place Glendon Soccer Team played what turned out to be their final game of a strange but productive season. The game was a quarter-final inter-college match which was won by second place McLaughlin College 1-0.

Except for the fact that the game had been re-scheduled from the day before (someone had said that it was too wet to play) everything went off without a hitch. Amazingly enough, the referee was there, the field was ready, the game started on time and the McLaughlin team actually showed up! The game began with both teams playing strong positional games with neither team getting many scoring chances. But after awhile the game opened up as the teams tested each others defenses with offensive rushes which went from end to end. Unfortunately one of the McLaughlin rushes ended up in a goal as a booming shot made it by a slipping Glendon goalie. McLaughlin attempted to keep up the pressure but Mike D'Souza, the Glendon goalie and the Glendon defense kept the game close.

In the second half McLaughlin tried to sit on the 1-0 lead while Glendon, wanting to tie the game, made continuous attacks. But Glendon was met by a solid and well-organized defense and when they did penetrate they were shut out by the McLaughlin goalie. With so much at stake emotions ran high and there were several disputes over the referee's calls. At this point the game was brought to half as Nick Tsiantakis from Glendon and a McLaughlin player threw Greek insults at each other over a foul call. But cooler heads prevailed and the game continued. With five minutes left Glendon doubled their efforts in an attempt to score. Corner kicks they would bring up a defensemen and kept the play in the oppositions half. Glendon was awarded one final free kick. The teams lined up, the play was on and the shot was blocked. Several seconds later the referee blew the whistle and the season ended in favor of the Glendon soccer Team and sending McLaughlin to the semi-finals.

The game was an intense, well fought strategic duel. The Glendon Team should be proud to have made it to the quarter-finals and having put up such a good fight against a strong opposition.

Next week: Final Report (part II) "The Team Itself"

If you think “pads and rollers” are just a California craze, you’re not ready for New Memorex.

Pads and rollers are key components of a cassette’s tape transport system. This system guides the tape past your deck’s tape head. It must do so with unerring accuracy. And no cassette does it more accurately than totally new Memorex.

The new Memorex tape transport system is precision engineered to exacting tolerances. Flanged, seamless rollers guide the tape effortlessly and exactly. An oversize pad hugs the tape to the tape head with critical pressure: firm enough for precise alignment, gentle enough to dramatically reduce wear.

Our unique ultra-low-friction polyolefin wafers help precision-molded hubs disperse and gather tape silently and uniformly, play after play. Even after 1,000 plays.

In fact, our new Memorex cassette will always deliver true sound reproduction, or we'll replace it. Free.

Of course, reproduction that true and that enduring owes a lot to Memorex’s turnpases, our extraordinary new binding process. It even owes a little to our unique new fumble-free storage album.

But when you record on new Memorex, whether it's HIGH BIAS II, normal bias MRX I or...
