CARVING UP THE CHRISTMAS BEAVER

by Kathleen Meaghan

Glendon student will not, as was reported last week, be 'dining' in style at the Royal Ontario Museum (ROM) holiday banquet. The official banquet will be held December 3rd in the Glendon cafeteria.

Previous plans to hold the function at the ROM were abandoned when V.P. Cultural, Paul Hogbin, informed students that the ROM, by the ROM, would not allow an additional room charge. Paul advised the museum to keep Glendon College's booking tentative until he could consult with Student Affairs. Paul interpreted this as a cancellation and has since booked the room to another organisation.

The only feasible alternative left at this late stage was to hold the banquet at Glendon. V.P. Internal, Dave Swint, feels that the Glendon location will, in fact, be more advantageous for the students. The ticket price of between $11 and $13 will be partially payable at the door. The turnout among residence students should therefore be higher. Dave maintains that the quality of entertainment will in no way suffer. The dinner will still be catered by a professional company—in this case Beaver Foods, and the entertainment will still be provided by Pete Schofeld and the Canadians. The location will simply be more accessible for many students.

Kathryn Liptrott, V.P. Academic, is concerned that the banquet will give Beaver Foods a chance for a reprise from mounting criticism. While supporting the Council's decision, Kathryn predicts a lower turnout than would have been expected at the ROM.

Many Student Council members feel that Paul Hogbin has been neglectful of his duties. Paul, himself, feels that due to his busy schedule, he will be unable to continue working within the Council. He is concerned that, because of the ROM mix-up, shadows of doubt will be cast on any of his future plans as V.P. Cultural. Paul feels that pressures from within the G.C.S.U. Executive will make his resignation inevitable.

Senator Wayne Burnett claims that Paul has lost the confidence of the Council. He is concerned that Paul should tender his resignation.

G.C.S.U. President Carl Hotz has, in fact, asked for Paul Hogbin's resignation. He says he's expecting it on November 29th.

If this happens, the position of V.P. Cultural will be open. One of the major events of a new term, which will be included in this portfolio, is the Winter Carnival. Paul has also been working on this event for the past couple of months. He was planning to bring back many of the events which have been so successful in past years, including the beer drinking contest. Some of the new events which he hoped to introduce were a Masquerade Ball, a Casino, Video Game contests, and a tobogan race down Cathedral Hill. Paul has also been trying to get Leo Longpré to return to Glendon.

The major event for this term, however, is the Christmas Banquet. The G.C.S.U. is encouraging all students to attend the dinner and enjoy the festivities to the fullest.

Um, we didn't get much support from the institutions plus the materials weren't mailed out in time.

At the session, the central committee took flak for being bureaucratic, undemocratic and ineffective. But none of those complaints were addressed at the final plenary because time ran out. The result? Delegates dumped resolutions that didn't hit the floor on the central committee.

The final plenary began at 11:00 a.m. November 13. Debate focused on the technicalities of CFS services until 9:30 p.m. Only then did delegates, already exhausted by a week-long conference, begin to discuss their organization's political role.

They scored a major victory when they ratified a campaign intended to activate students by fighting fiscal restraint. But the same evening they lost the most active campus in Canada, Moncton, because they couldn't spare 450. They complained the central committee was undemocratic yet half of their policy motions for the committee decided to die.

They said they wanted to involve more students in CFS, but newcomers to CFS conferences were left mystified.

As first-time delegate said, I feel useless here, I don't know what it's all about.

CFS CONFERENCE CHAOTIC

VICTORIA (CUP)—Seventy-five strange faces filled the lecture hall. A student, who was bewhiskered eyes stood out at the back.

His jaw dropped as student pollutants from across Canada finally discussed the issue that concerned him the most—provisioning $500 in legal fees for environmentalists.

Ironically, about an hour before, a student tycoon dumped resolutions that didn't hit the floor on the central committee.

As the committee's report was discussed, the students cheered when they learned they would be able to continue working within the Council. They scored a hard time pulling it off.

The conference began awkwardly Nov. 9 when the opening plenary started an hour late. The first motion, which ratified the plenary chair, created a 15-minute debate. It took an hour for the plenary to accept an agenda for the conference.

When the bus from the University of Victoria to the downtown hotel had to leave at 11:00 p.m., delegates stormed out of the plenary before business had been completed. There was not even a motion to adjourn.

Throughout the week most delegates were poorly attended. There was a clear split between those interested in the services aspect of CFS and those interested in the political.

Many delegates came to the conference with specific criticisms of the organization, but there were few opportunities for them to be voiced.

Specifically, delegated failed to deal with the complaints from the Student Union of Nova Scotia, that CFS provides poor services and services provincial autonomy SUNS members said they want the freedom for institutions to join the provincial organizations and not the national, but this is not possible according to current CFS guidelines.

SUNS' complaints came up briefly Thursday morning when delegates demanded an accountability session with the CFS central committee and services board.

They scored a major victory when they ratified a campaign intended to activate students by fighting fiscal restraint. But the same evening they lost the most active campus in Canada, Moncton, because they couldn't spare 450. Transformer les épées en socs de charrue: l'opposition pacifiste dans les "autres" Allemagne

par Michel-Adrien Sheppard

Le paix est milieus mieux défendue par des masses mobilisées que par les vieux orateurs du dimanche, quelle que soit l'attitude d'Etat à laquelle ils appartiennent... De même que la lutte pour la paix en RFA est une lutte contre le monopole, elle ne peut qu'être liée, en Allemagne de l'Est, à un équivalent des "politbureaucrates", dont le seul but dans l'existence est le maintien de leur pouvoir... Lettre d'un pacifiste de Berlin-Est au journal de Berlin, Ouest, Berliner Tagezeitung, 9 mars, 1982.

Au moment même où l'on manifeste pour la paix en RFAL'ongent du peuple, portant la main à la main, dans les rues d'Europe occidentale contre la stratégie de réarmement impérialiste de Reagon, un autre mouvement, exigeant de voir la main de l'ennemi surgir là où on ne l'y attendait pas, en effet, depuis l'automne 81, la vague de protestation a saisi les cours de la mort atomique qu'elle s'étend à l'Etat, en République Démocratique Allemande, sous l'impulsion de plus en plus de chrétiens pour la plupart, et d'une frange partielle de communistes, résoudant le dilemme: en effet, il serait difficile d'envisager la paix, si l'on admet que la création d'une conscience gouvernement pour l'instauration d'un ordre socialiste anti-bureaucratique en Allemagne, que nos protecteurs, aux yeux de la population de 17 millions de citoyens, en 1976, ont promis. Ce qui n'a pas non plus de valeur, c'est qu'elles expriment notamment la vie créatrice que leur pays ne soit pas un grand centre de l'armement nucléaire. Mais plus profondément, ce pacifisme de plus en plus radical plonge ses racines dans une réflexion ancienne, qui est aussi celle du mouvement pacifiste interallemand en particulier, celle des évêques de Prague, et de d'autres jours, qui, de leur propre volonté, ont interdit de prendre des armes, de combattre... Elle a dû intercéder pour que la population de 4 millions et demi d'étudiants, au sein des classes de 2e année de médecine, aient pu aller voter pour le parti communiste, au lieu de l'établissement institutionnel du régime, et de ses athlètes olympiques en tant que "bastions avancés du socialisme démocratique en Tchécoslovaquie en 1968 a été ravie par les menace proférées par Honecker contre le syndicat Socialiste de l'UCC, avec laquelle il a constaté l'élection de Honecker au poste de secrétaire général du parti... Le militantisme des jugendmengen s'articulait autour du slogan "créez la paix sans armes". Ce qui n'a pas non plus de valeur, c'est qu'elles expriment notamment la vie créatrice que leurs pays ne soit pas un grand centre de l'armement nucléaire. Mais plus profondément, ce pacifisme de plus en plus radical plonge ses racines dans une réflexion ancienne, qui est aussi celle du mouvement pacifiste interallemand... Les manifestations ont été organisées dans les URSS, pour l'instauration de l'ordre socialiste anti-bureaucratique en Allemagne... Plus encore, de nombreux parents ont circulé dans les médias, symbolisés par le modèle officiel, "la paix doit être armée".

Nombreux sont ceux qui ont souligné, en particulier ceux qui sont animateurs du mouvement pacifiste anti-militariste en RFA, que les 5 à 6 millions de manifestants de Berlin-Est avaient une portée politique plus importante que les plus de 350 000 personnes réunies à Bonn en octobre dernier, vu le contrôle serré exercé sur la population de l'Est allemande par la police secrète et la police politique. De multiples indices attestent depuis la fin des années 70 du développement d'une profonde sensibilité pacifiste en RDA... En dépit de la détente entre la vieille Allemagne de l'Est et de l'Ouest, qui a pris fin en 1989, les élections de novembre 1987 entre le chef d'Etat Erich Honecker et l'archétype Schoenher, l'introduction de l'enseignement paramilitaire dans les classes du second cycle du primaire à la fin de 78 provoqua un tollé de protestations dans les tigermansienne de la population de base des jeunes protestants) et toucha même certains secteurs du leadership ecclésiastique. De nombreux parents s'adresent au Ministre de l'Education par objection de conscience à ce que leurs enfants soient soumis à un embrigadement religieux... Ce qui n'a pas non plus de valeur, c'est qu'elles expriment notamment la vie créatrice que leurs pays ne soit pas un grand centre de l'armement nucléaire. Mais plus profondément, ce pacifisme de plus en plus radical plonge ses racines dans une réflexion ancienne, qui est aussi celle du mouvement pacifiste interallemand... Les manifestations ont été organisées dans les URSS, pour l'instauration de l'ordre socialiste anti-bureaucratique en Allemagne... Plus encore, de nombreux parents ont circulé dans les médias, symbolisés par le modèle officiel, "la paix doit être armée".

L'Eglise, simultanément partie intégrante de l'establishissement institutionnel du régime et porte-parole des sensibilité religieuses de la population, est la plus sensible à la question. Elle s'est d'abord opposée à la création d'une conscience gouvernement pour l'instauration du régime, le Ministre des Cultes rejette tout bénéfice de ce qu'elles expriment notamment la vie créatrice que leurs pays ne soit pas un grand centre de l'armement nucléaire. Mais plus profondément, ce pacifisme de plus en plus radical plonge ses racines dans une réflexion ancienne, qui est aussi celle du mouvement pacifiste interallemand... Les manifestations ont été organisées dans les URSS, pour l'instauration de l'ordre socialiste anti-bureaucratique en Allemagne... Plus encore, de nombreux parents ont circulé dans les médias, symbolisés par le modèle officiel, "la paix doit être armée".

Le militantisme des jugendmengen s'articulait autour du slogan "créez la paix sans armes". Ce qui n'a pas non plus de valeur, c'est qu'elles expriment notamment la vie créatrice que leurs pays ne soit pas un grand centre de l'armement nucléaire. Mais plus profondément, ce pacifisme de plus en plus radical plonge ses racines dans une réflexion ancienne, qui est aussi celle du mouvement pacifiste interallemand... l'affaire des Allemands, et que leur neutralisation militaire en était la condition. Ces précisions lui valurent les lourdes de la presse officielle en RDA, mais il fit un chèque inutile après la grâce écoute-pacifiste en Allemagne de l'Ouest, où l'idée de la «solution autarchique » (indépendance vis-à-vis des blocs militaires) fait son chemin.

La Lettre eut également son impact en RDA. Tout juste après sa publication, se tint à Koenigswalde un «seminaire de la paix» rassemblant 300 personnes. Un message de solidarité fut envoyé à Bonn, capitale de la RFA, où se déroulait la manifestation pacifiste la plus massive de l'histoire européenne, mais pour l'essentiel, la discussion tourna autour de la prise de position de Havemann et de l'action à entreprendre pour soutenir le syndicat polonais Solidarnosc.

La rencontre de Koenigswalde représente la rupture d'une génération radicalisée avec les idées reçues du «palais d'Etat» (la «paix armée»), qui n'était que le reflet fidèle du «peace through superior fire-power» de Reagan-Carter. Aux pouvoirs, on opposa le mot d'ordre autonome de «Frieden schaffen ohne Waffen» (con- sistant dans une action pacifique). Les participants dénoncèrent sévèrement le gaspillage scandaleux en Occident in­ duit par la dépense en armements, à cause de la misère des pays pauvres que cela entraînait, mais pour mieux rappeler qu'à l'Est, la surveillance de la machine de guerre entraînait les séquelles désastreuses pour le niveau de vie du peuple.

Pendant que ce qui l'on pourra qualifier d'aile militante du pacifisme et d'organisation consolidée du côté de l'Ouest, l'autorité se mettait également à la besogne. Avec l'autoris­ a­tion du gouvernement, qui ne voyait plus l'occasion de lancer une contre-offensive de propagande, un écrivain dissident Stefan Hermlin invita une assemblée de dix-cent personnes, et des intellectuels, chez qui le rigueur de l'encadrement de l'Etat bûreaucratique, que c'est le mot d'ordre outonomede l'opposition. Véritable synthèse des préoccupa­ tions qui se sont fait jour dans des secteurs entiers de l'opinion publique à propos de la complète de leur propre pays dans la course vers la guerre nucléaire, l'Appel fut initialement paré par 37 citoyens de différents villes de RDA, dont 11 prêtres protestants, 4 employés, 1 artisan, 1 ingénieur, le pasteur Eppelmann, un écrivain, Robert Havemann et sa femme.

Reprenant à son compte de nombreuses idées de la Lettre ouverte de Havemann à Brejnev et du mouvement anti-belliciste, l'Appel déclare:

Claude décriant la domination de l'Europe conservative du Portugal à la frontière polono-soviétique (une des planches de la plateforme du pacifique officiel de l'Etat),

Claude des Nations unies et de la désarmement militaire et à la fabrication de jouets militaires, la fin des exercices de défense civile, «sorte de préparation psychologique à la guerre».

L'Appel révèle le délicat jeu de

L'appel a d'extraordinaire de la hiérarchie éclésiasti­ que. En effet, les syndiques provinciaux des Allemands acceptaient sans installation militaire dans leurs territoires plus avantageuse pour s'auto-limite­ rait ainsi que les agents intellectuels. Il est remarquable dans cette mesure. En effet, les syndiques de la RDA, comme ils le veulent, ne peuvent pas assez pour l'initiative du parti, mais ils peuvent réfléchir collectivement et créer des espaces autonomes d'action politique.

Mais l'Église, malgré les tensions

Le seul problème pour les chiens de garde de la vulgaire Spleine du parti est que, c'est que l'on pourra trouver à côté de lui, l'aile intellectuelle se mettait demain et accentuerait ainsi le risque de redéfinition et des examens de con­ solidation avec les oppositionnels et des tendances non-religieux a contribué dans une large mesure à l'aggravation des événements de Dresde, le 13 février dernier. Cette journée est une de deuil national; le 13 février 1945, cette ville, enfant de cultures innom­ brables et sans installation militaire im­ portante, était bordée de réfugiés des camps de Konrad et des territoires voisins du pays. Pour porter un coup à la morale allemande et à la paix pacifique, des tentes de bombes incendiaires et au phosphore sur les civils. 135.000 per­ sonnes ont traversé une nuit. C'est un véritable massacre contre des innocents, lorsque les nazis avaient déjà objectivement perdu la guerre, est com­ mémoré officiellement à toutes les années.

L'Église, pour canaliser les sentiments pacifistes, y organise cette année un «Forum des Syndicats», croyant ainsi pouvoir contrôler les jeunes. Mais, quelle fut donc la surprise de l'évêque de Hemholtz, qui fut élu plein de craquer et qu'il ut subir le feu des questions sur la nécessité d'agir selon ses conceptions, débordé par l'impétunité débridée des Syndiquéens devant présenter, les aver­ sos les conséquences, bousculés de leurs inquiétudes, quelques milliers de jeunes se dirigèrent spontanément vers le front de l'Église Notre-Dame pour une manifestation illégale. Le gouverne­ ment, lui non plus, ne sut exacte­ ment comment agir. Malgré le quadrillage systématique du centre­ ville, il n'y eut aucune intervention policière jusqu'ici.

Indirectement, cependant, le mouvement stalinien a commencé sa contre-offensive. Avec l'interdiction de la mobilisation des réservistes et de l'installation de la période de service militaire, plus de lourds certes, mais également avec toute la puissance d'un Etat bûreaucratique, que c'est le mot d'ordre outonomede l'opposition. Corletus est étonné de voir tant de monde sur la rue. Il croyait que la terre n'était peuplée que de dix hommes. Il arrive à l'intersection et dit bonjour à plusieurs personnes, mais peut-être sont trop occupées pour prendre le temps de parler à un petit bonhomme. Un homme s'arrête cependant et lui dit quelque chose dans une langue que Corletus ne comprend pas.

"Are you lost my boy?" Comme il ne répond pas, l'homme s'en va. Corletus est bien déprimé car il a fait ce long voyage et maintenant il ne peut communiquer avec qui que ce soit. Il quitte cette ville. De l'autre côté de cette ville laide et déprimante Corletus entend une langue qui n'est pas l'anglais, plutôt se dit «Glendon» que «slider». Il ne sait pas lequel prendre de ces deux langues, il décide de rentrer dans la maison et de quitter cette ville. De l'autre côté de cette ville il n'y a que des maisons de taille haute et lourdes. Il ne peut comprendre ce que ces terriens aiment dans leurs maisons. Il marche sur les rues de cette ville laide et déprimante. Il entend une langue qui n'est pas l'anglais, plutôt se dit Corletus, «Ce doit être un français déformé». Sur la rue il rencontre un homme qui est plus vieux et qui semble moins préoccupé que les autres. Cet homme s'appelle Louis Forest. Intrigué, M. Forest l'invite à sa maison. Il explique beaucoup de choses à Corletus, entre autres il se trouve à la ville de Hull, dans la province du Quebec. Corletus lui demande des questions toute la nuit et M. Forest répond à chacune de ces questions. Il lui explique la vie sur la terre. Corletus est bien fasciné par le fait que tous les terriens parlent des langues différentes. M. Forest lui répond que cela constitue l'un des plus vieux problèmes de la planète – la communication. Il lui donne comme exemple la situation au Québec et au Canada : «Dans un pays tel que le Canada où il y a deux langues officielles et deux peuples fondateurs, nous devons nous attacher à avoir des problèmes de communications». Corletus reste deux semaines chez cet homme extraordinaire et son amiable épouse. M. Forest lui conseille d'aller à la ville de Québec. «La plus belle ville de notre province», dit M. Forest.

Corletus part pour la ville de Québec le 17 janvier. Il gréée de M. et Mme Forest une bonne éducation de base. Il est facilité par le problème canadien et veut le comprendre plus clairement. Corletus, arrivé à Québec, se promenait souvent le long du fiacre St-Laurent. Un soir, il fit une rencontre des plus importantes pour son exploration. Il rencontra le Premier Ministre Rene Lemonceau. M. Lemonceau, plantant de problèmes que Corletus avait de questions. Le Premier Ministre avait de grands plans pour son peuple, des plans qui, semble-t-il, était en train de prendre la lumière. M. Lemonceau, qui rêvait de liberté, dit: "Le peuple québécois qui avait été trop longtemps attaché à des liens artificiels qui profitaient à autrui".

Corletus avait bien remarqué que les anglophones du Québec semblaient dominer les Québécois francophones. (Un peu comme mes parents me dominaient). Je n'avais aucune liberté, j'étais contrôlé, mais maintenant je suis libre et René ne m'y a rien tel que la liberté. Le problème du Premier Ministre était très vaste, le peuple du Québec était domine sous tous les aspects économiques, sociaux, politiques, etc... Corletus, ne pouvait comprendre tous ces problèmes, promit à Lemonceau d'étudier l'histoire du Canada et d'y trouver une solution si possible.

Corletus, qui était doté d'une intelligence supérieure, réussit en quelques semaines à apprendre ce que certains hommes et femmes gardant des années et ne comprenaient jamais. Il avait un cœur de bébé à relever. Il se donna mission la découverte d'une solution aux problèmes de René Lemonceau et du peuple canadien français.

BLACK & BLUE HIJINX IN THE CAFETERIA

by W. S. Beard

On Friday, November 19, the cafeteria was the site of a dance featuring two fine young bands, Hijinx and Black and Blue. The headlining band was to have been Willy English, a rockably inclined group that had long been recommended to me. I was disappointed that they did not play, but the bands that did show were well worth the admission anywhere. Unfortunately, the evening was ill-attended by Glendolites, as is usually the case whenever a live band performs at a dance, as opposed to having a DJ, which tends to attract a larger crowd. True, with a record dance, one is certain to recognize at least some of the songs, and there is generally something played to suit everyone's taste. But had more people turned out on Friday night, they would have found that Hijinx and Black and Blue both play the type of music that usually gets Glendon students dancing – the 50's and 60's stuff.

I do have an embarrassing confession to make at this point: I was very psyched up to do a review of a Willy English dance, and when they became otherwise engaged, I was a little let down. Then, seeing that the audience was fairly large on Friday night, I assumed that a review of the dance would not be in order. So I kept wandering out of the cafeteria and over to the pub (or wherever that was the night ended up), but during the times that I managed to find my way back to the dance, I had a great time, as did everyone else.

This leads me to a point that probably should not be made on the Entertainment page, but as it's cropped up all over this little paper, why not here too? Pro Tem depends on the Glendon community to write these sorts of reviews, because it is staffed by average Glendon students, and read by average Glendon students. (By average, I mean that no person is either too skilled or too pathetic with the pen to contribute something.)

There is almost always some event happening at Glendon on the weekends (sometimes right in the middle of the week too), so if you feel that some comment should be passed in regards to any of these events, write an article.

MAPLE LYS: WE'RE ON OUR WAY

by Daniel Sponagle

Last Tuesday evening before a cheering crowd of well wishers, the Glendon Maple Lys continued to show why they may be the team to be reckoned with this year. From the opening whistle Glendon took control of the game that they would win 4-3. It was a good close game with the Maple Lys outplaying, out-hitting and finally overcoming their opposition. On the whole the team played extremely well. Individual stats looked like this: Peter Gibbon who had been in a scoring slump prior to this game found the touch that had led him to be leading scorer last season. With some brilliant moves, Peter led the team with a goal and three assists. His linemates Don Blue and Pat McDonough were not to be left out. These two guys, perhaps the best centreman and right winger respectively in the league continued to out-flush and outmove the opposing team.

Donny capped a fine performance by scoring once and assisting on two others while Pat had one goal and two assists also. But it wasn't just Pat's scoring that helped Glendon win. It was his amazing finesse while he was on the Ice. The man has amazing talent and he's always a threat. The amazing on-ice prowess of these three guys sends fear to all opposing teams, especially the goal-tenders.

The other goal was scored by Billy Abris, another bright spot on the defense this year. Bill is the most consistent goal scorer, averaging almost one goal per game. And if he's not scoring, he's dishing out punishing checks on the blue line.

Mike Timcombe and Long John Lumsden played a strong game turning the Calumet players inside out at almost every occasion. Mike is so slippery that it's a wonder why he never turned to a life of crime – he's never got caught.

On the defense note there can be nothing but praise for the guys who go in, game out, play exceptional hockey. Everyone played great on defense but Chris Cooke is continuing to play consistently magnificent, holding back the opposing forwards. Steve Phillips and Al Colvin are also playing their best hockey with Steve stopping two sure goals and Al Colvin (reminiscent of past Rugby days) hitting everything and anything that moves.

The best hit of the game Tuesday came from Carl Helu, who has to be the most punishing hitter in this league.

Finally, the last word of mention must go to the most underrated player on the team. Phil (Mark the Shark) Bouchard who continues to keep Glendon in the winning column. He played a strong game turning aside shot after shot. With a team like this you can expect only good things.

The Maple Lys have the potential to go all the way. So why not come on out and watch an exciting game. You won't be disappointed. The team's record is 3-1-1 and we're not stopping there. Remember what you don't see watching the Leafs, you'll definitely see watching the Maple Lys.

Reading Week

The recent Faculty Council survey discovered that an overwhelming majority of students (95%) want a reading week in the fall term along with the winter reading week. Most students also felt that they would use the time to study. The GCSU talked generally about the extra reading week next year, and most members felt a reading break as it stood last year. It is now up to Faculty Senate to introduce the fall break as it stood last year.

Part-timers last Wednesday at noon in the JCR. In fact, Student Senator Wayne Burnett, organiser of the meeting, was found talking to himself in the JCR.

When asked to comment, he replied 'I don't understand it. We had big signs posted and notices (bilingual) in both Pro Tem and the Glendon Bulletin. Maybe they've all been amputated by Johnson (the part-time college of York)'.

Another meeting, which was to elect a representative to the GCSU, he has asked part-timers, if any remain, to leave messages for him. No one. One further meeting will be called probably in January or unless interest is suddenly overwhelming. If this meeting also fails to elect a representative, one will be appointed.

Deal yourself a winning hand...

Prepare yourself for success in today's highly competitive world as an RIA Management Accountant.

With your degree and the RIA designation you will have the professional edge in the job market.

You will be entering a profession that cannot supply RIAs fast enough to keep up with the demand from business and government... a need that is projected to continue through this decade and beyond.

RIAs are in demand because of their unique training in management as well as accounting. They have expertise in strategic planning, budgeting, operations control and data analysis. RIAs move ahead quickly on the management team.

Over 55% of all RIAs hold senior positions in business, industry and government. Your job prospects will improve the day you start the RIA program because employers recognise the commitment you have made to obtaining professional qualifications.

What's more, the RIA program is flexible. You can work toward your degree and RIA designation at the same time. In fact, you may already qualify for advanced standing in the RIA program.
