TORONTO (CUP): Following Tuesday’s intrusion by York North students into Glendon territory, student representative G.C.S.U. President Kathie Darroch has declared ‘war’ on the supremely arrogant and oppressive North campus. Earlier this week, while conducting maneuvers, York North students violated Inter-University boundaries by crossing Glendon’s feared “Gates of Death”. This action justified the launching of six Franco-Ontarian ‘Anti-Centralization’ missiles. York North student representative C.Y.S.F. President Reya Ali denounced Glendon’s actions and responded by destroying two of Glendon’s launch sites and by asking the Board of Governors to condemn the students of Glendon for their “unprovoked and unneces­sarily militant” actions.

As a result, President Darroch in a ‘defiant declaration’ on Wednesday has called out to all oppressed bilingual institutions in the Toronto area to launch a series of suicide attacks upon the various pubs and college residences at the Keele campus.

Glendon’s Director of External Affairs, John Land, responded on Wednesday during a press conference by saying, “Really! I wondered what all that activity in the Quad was about!” When asked for his official position on the volatile situation, Land responded, “I have no report at this time.”

President Ali has stated “We are taking every precaution to ensure the security of our installations and students abroad.” He then called Darroch a ‘parish’ and accused Glendonites of terrorist acts at several of York North’s pubs and special events. (He then made references to a certain Maple Lys hockey game.)

“There is no time for talking”, Darroch told Pro Tem reporters in her threat on Wednesday, “We are at war. We are prepared to fight against the arrogant York Main government around the campuses.”

The recent nominations for Valedictorian of the 1986 Glendon Graduating Class have been tinged by scandal.

Lisa Ker, one graduate, was seen standing around the nomination box. She apparently was attempting to sway graduates to nominate a certain person. Her friend Stéphane Charbonneau was also present.

When confronted, Ker stated, “I was just trying to help. I don’t think I’m doing anything wrong.” She also stated that she ordered Charbonneau to “help” as well.

Another graduate stated, “I don’t think she or anyone else has that much influence. I mean if the numbers are there, they’re there. What can she do?”

One Student Senator was shocked. He thought that although it was not an official election (ballots will be sent out in May) he did not think she should be anywhere in the vicinity of the table. Reports have indicated that there were many people seen in the area of the nomination booth.

“I mean, I swear every Glendon student was in the area at lunch time. I saw them with my own eyes. Just because it’s in a corridor by the cafeteria doesn’t mean everyone and their mother can walk by”, states one student.

Last year’s Valedictorian was Jas Ahmad. He had no comment to make. In fact, Pro Tem could not contact him by press time.

There is as yet no talk of revising the formula in order to appear more “democratic” to the administration.

the Committee has initiated sweeping changes to the institutional framework of the university.

Senate was split over the first of SCAMGAY's recommendations, which involved renaming the "Keele Campus", (or Main Campus). The Committee recommended the campus be retitled the "Murray Ross Campus" (so named in honour of the Parkway which follows the perimeters of the campus), however, after lengthy debate, it was decided that the "North Campus" was a more appropriate title.

In a rare scene, Senate was unanimous in their support of Recommendation No. 2, however. This recommendation called for the immediate return of Glendon College to its original status as the "Main Campus". In light of Glendon Faculty Council's instruction to return the College to its former position as the bilingual campus of York University (which brought the College into line with the ideals of York's creators), it was felt by SCAMGAY, and Senate, that Glendon deserved recognition for its honourable intentions.

Recommendation No. 3, to move all Senate affairs (including monthly meetings) to Room 129, was hotly debated by empassioned speakers both for and against the motion. One Senator was adamant in his support for relocation. "We're (Senators) sick and tired of this plush, poured-concrete, broad-looming BOX of a chamber...129 (Room 129, York Hall) has character and tradition. It's ugly, uncomfortable and graffiti-covered, but its got air conditioning and proper lighting...you can also hear the Speaker for a change. I'm proud of our decision."

When asked about the motivation behind agreeing with SCAMGAY's recommendation to retitle the campuses, the Senator (who refused to be named) replied, "the North campus cannot compare to Glendon's character and record of efficiency."

The rationale offered by SCAMGAY to move Senate to Glendon surrounded two central points. Firstly, since President Arthurs prefers not to speak in Senate while meetings are in session, the move would give the President an opportunity to deliver his remarks. Secondly, with Glendon "under the same roof" with the College, the Senate would have a better chance of influencing the College's decision to "be bilingual."..."I think it is an atrocity to mischievousness have incidiousl y covered, but its got air..."

Dear Friends of UNICEF,

On behalf of the Ontario UNICEF Committee, I wish to thank all the people in Ontario who supported UNICEF this past year. Through the Hallowe'en campaign, generous donations and thoughtful purchases of UNICEF cards and gifts, UNICEF Ontario realized over $2 million to help the world's children.

The success of our 1985 Campaign was due in no small way to the many volunteers who gave their time and enthusiasm to our organization. This was complemented by the warm response UNICEF received from the media in Ontario.

Nineteen eighty six will mark the launch of a major initiative on the part of the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF); the universal child immunization by 1990. Using simple cost-effective vaccines it is possible to eradicate the six major child-killing and disabling diseases — tetanus, measles, polio, tuberculosi, diphtheria, and whooping cough. New technologies and methods of delivery of the vaccine, and the commitment of individuals and governments in both developed and developing countries, make it possible to drastically reduce child deaths.

This year, UNICEF also celebrates its 40th anniversary in providing water, nutrition, education, and health care to the millions of children whose lives are in jeopardy. The role of the Canadian public and government in extending these basic services to the world's children has been and continues to be both substantial and important.

In our campaign messages we urge Ontarians to "Give the Children A Tomorrow". Your assistance over the past year has done just that for hundreds of thousands of children. May I extend thanks on behalf of these children and the UNICEF volunteers in Ontario.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth Haig

government. To add insult to injury, she suggested that the money be used to recruit Tory youth. It is frightening to see such cutbacks when one considers that youth are the hardest hit by unemployment, and postsecondary education is in pathetic state nationwide. In efforts to give tax breaks to corporations (which is the biggest waste of government money, according to the Neilson Report), and to the wealthy (whose average taxes have DROPPED since this government took office), the Mulroney government is cutting funding to that section of the population which needs it the most! The Katuniauk program, however useful, is only a small part of this government's unforgivable youth policy. One only has to look at the United Kingdom to see the catastrophic results of a systematic and planned neglect of the youth of a nation. It is a policy which richly deserves forceful protest.

But let us consider the ethics of a hunger strike. A hunger strike is probably the most bewildering combination of noble self-sacrifice, dedication to ideals, blackmail and brazen publicity hunting that exists in the political armory. Both IRA hero Tom Ashe and IRA terrorist Bobby Sands lost their lives in such a fashion, over sixty years apart. Gandhi made effective use of the technique to stop Hindu-Moslem rioting, and more recently Polish refugees here in Toronto fasted until the Polish government is more recently Polish refugees here in Toronto fasted until the Polish government

Upon walking through the fiery explosions of the North York attack on Glendon's 'Anti-Centralization' missile launch site, an aura of beauty descended upon my ever-optimistic being. Oh to smell the gunpowder and the self-preserving carnage that scattered like a waterfall along the tall grass of the Quad. There is nothing quite so beautiful...Tuesday's bombing brought to Glendon a sense of community - Nay, a sense of Nation. Bloodshed has never been so wonderful. Skateboarding along the path from Hilliard to Wood, I noticed ash-black sandbags kissed by the bitter-sweet powder of raining mortar fire. Those screams - those ominous, tortured screams - they yielded my senses. Philosophers have often pondered the true meaning of 'beauty'. And this, almost terrifying sight, would most definitely have provided them with its ultimate definition.

Like summertime Friebees, the bombs whirled above me. And I, in my most awakened moment, was rendered speechless...

The Ontario Science Centre in cooperation with companies of John Labatt - Ault Dairies, Castelli and Ogilvie - plus the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and Ministry of Citizenship and Culture are presenting a major exhibition entitled, "Food".

This exhibition, which is already under way is scheduled to run until Nov. 2, 1986. During this time, various different and unique displays will be presented on all aspects of food and the food industry. The Kitchen will host celebrity cooks and groups from many ethnic communities to demonstrate their techniques and traditions. The Marketplace is an array of multimedia exhibits that explore the global dimensions of food - production, processing, packaging, diet and digestion. The Farm will present the science and technology of breeding and caring for live farm animals and plants. Visitors will milk cows, churn butter, grind wheat and make ice cream.

Throughout the seven month stint, various other exhibitions associated with all aspects of food will be presented.

"This exhibit will, in many ways, be timely," Lily Munro, Minister of Citizenship and Culture, said recently. "For Ontarians have never been more conscious - pre-occupied, in fact - with nutrition. We are concerned about health, mindful of fitness and - who among us - doesn't monitor his or her weight at least once a week?"

The Science Centre is open daily 10 am - 6 pm, Fridays until 9 pm.

STAN RIDGWAY

By Afzum Qureshi

"I'm a sponge that can pick up anything," says former Wall of Voodoo frontman, and current independent artist, Stan Ridgway. "My influences have been varied, from Ethel Merman, to Johnny Cash, to Sun Ra. "It's no wonder then, because of this mixture that his music sounds as if it 'just on the verge of breaking down.'" Ridgway's new track, "Ring Of Fire," is an accurate description. Stan Ridgway's new LP, The Big Heat (IRS Records) is a collection of pieces from ballads to mini epics that retains the same sort of Mexican/cowboy sound that Wall of Voodoo was famous for. It's no wonder as Ridgway was the major force behind the W.O.V.'s songwriting. The need to do things on his own compelled Ridgway to "fire himself" from W.O.V. - a big move.

"After that, I was a little overwhelmed. It just suddenly hit me that I was really alone. Not only that, but there were all these tedious legal problems and obligations to fill that were dragging me down. People in LA thought I maliciously 'broke up' the band. It worked out itself though, thank God. I just really needed the time. There were no hard feelings between me and the other band members, and my personal life improved greatly."

Shortly afterward in 1984, Ridgway was busy in the studio again, this time with Police member, Stewart Copeland, doing the soundtrack for Francis Ford Coppola's Rumble Fish.

"Stewart is a very nice, very talented person. Working with him was a pleasure, and a lot of fun. Right after I heard that the name of the movie was Rumblefish. "Stewart locked me in a room to work on the lyrics, as I only had one day. I started concocting all these, well, metaphorical fish couplets. You know, stuff like 'Oh yeah, yeah, I'm living in a fish bowl, what a stinking life, I'm on the dole.' etc. I had never done a soundtrack before, and I thought I had to incorporate the title into the song. Of course we wound up with Don't Box Me In - a nice little song, but not after a lot of misunderstanding."

By this time, Ridgway had already collected a backlog of material. He refined three of these and in 1985, released them in Europe. Sales were not so good. Europe's become a hit in France and Germany, while The Big Heat was successful in England. Ridgway added six more songs ("I had so many that it was difficult to choose.") and released the LP, The Big Heat. His fort thus definitely lies in his songwriting abilities.
Voix Obstinées dans un Duo Déchirant

Christine Lahti et Mary Tyler Moore become best friends.

by Nancy Stevens

Holly Davis is a shy, conservative housewife who gave up her career for a marriage and family. She is so sweet that it is not able to say "the F-word" out loud.

Sandy Dunlap is a gutsy, on the go, compulsive TV reporter who is divorced and lives on junk food. Both women meet at an exercise class (Holly lends Sandy her towel) and find that their opposite qualities attract one another. Over sweaty sit-ups, and late night munchies after class, they become close friends, best friends.

But they have more in common than they both know.

On the evening that Sandy is invited to Holly's for dinner, Sandy sees the family portrait on the wall and realizes with horror that the man she's been sleeping with for the past year is none other than Holly's husband. Oh no! What a movie about women, friendships and love, and what happens when they all get mixed up and confused.

In the role of Holly, Mary Tyler Moore gives us Mary Richards as a housewife. She is so skinny, that the audience attention is on the scrappiness of her arms instead of what she is doing. Gain some weight, Holly.

As Sandy, Christine Lahti shines, as she did in Swing Shift, when she upstaged Goldie Hawn. Ted Danson (Cheers) as the husband is quietly, and Sam Waterson (The Killing Fields) as her friend, provides the movie's uplifting funny moments. It is an all star cast that gets you laughing and crying, but sometimes wondering why, I mean, we don't even know the plot and we've got problems of our own to worry about. Soap opera fans will be in their glory.

friendship between the two women is tested and we are taken through a journey of laughter and tears (mostly tears). Sort of like a soap opera, but better lit and better scripted. Just Between Friends is a movie about women, friendships and love, and what happens when they all get mixed up and confused.
