HAVE FAITH

To the staff of PRO TEM: In January 1973, a delega­ tion of students from York University with Dr. Slater, former President of York University and John Beller, to discuss the terms under which the students would end the occupation of the Ac­ counts Office at Glendon. At that time Dr. Slater assured us that there were no ade­ demic penalties for late pay­ ment of fees. He points out that this was in keeping with the ruling of the York Uni­ versity Senate that Glendon College end the occupation of the Ac­ counts Office if York University and Glendon College were one. They have a right to 100% pay­ ments the student they must have time essays to finish and exams into stamp books. SCHOLARSHIPS

The Toronto Women's Li­ beral Association has added to the list of scholarships open to Glendon students the awarding of the Parry Mclntosh Scholarship. Valued at $300, the scholar­ ship will be awarded annually to a Glendon woman student enrolled in the B.A. programs who is majoring in Canadian Studies. Women in both the second and fourth-year programs may apply through the Canadian Studies subcom­ mittee.

This year's winner was E­ lizabeth Light, a third-year student from Montreal taking combined honors in History and Canadian Studies. The Parry scholarship is one of several new awards to be available next year. York University is now granting free tuition to grade 12 stu­ dents with 80 per cent. And the Friends of Glendon are offering six entrance schol­ arships to students entering the bilingual program. One is worth $500 — the other five $300.

These are on top of the regular schol­ arships, bursaries and other private scholarships open to Glendon and Glendon students and the 40 teaching assistant­ ships for students from outside Ontario.

Scholarships are worth ap­ proven, and when you have been approached lately to see if they would do stories, they have usually said no and closed o­ verwork as the reason. This week you can see the results and so we give you the Glen­ don ADVERTISER.

For forms that have been re­ gistered, please confirm that if you have the consent of the parents we will be simply a formality if you have pre-registered.

Forms will go out once the timetable and new cal­ endar are ready and students will have three weeks to make their decisions about next year's programme. If courses are full they'll stay that way, unless some other student drops out or changes his mind. With popular courses, pri­ ority will be given to students who are enrolled in the department offering the course. If places are still available, they'll go to non-Glendon students. Par­ ter prior to the expiry date only. After that date, places will be filled up to actual registration on a first-come, first-served ba­ sis.

If you're going to be un­ reachable — i.e., if you have the consent of the parents we will be simply a formality if you have pre-registered.
