But stage is set for External Affairs battle

PRO TEM STAFF

Both the candidates for External Affairs Director, Jim Weston and Bruce Kidd, agree that the department needs to be revitalized. How this is to be done is the important issue in their respective campaigns.

Bruce Kidd proposes a complete reorganization of the department, reducing the divisions from fourteen to four. Each of the four main divisions would have a chairman and sub-departments.

Jim Weston proposes the establishment of a research group within External Affairs to assist council in formulation of policy and to back up council for important legislation. The student council should return from its period of consolidation to a period of action and progress.

Weston draws attention to the potential of the department with its wide scope for action, and its significance and effect on all students.

For Kidd, "the first issue is to establish external affairs an effective department open to all students." He says that he and other students had difficulty getting into this department. To overcome this, Kidd proposes a programme of social action to be available to all students.

He cites the recent Research Office controversy as an example of the kind of activity to be set up. A Big Brother plan would be made available for willing Glendon students. Kidd also wants to see a more active student-liaison committee to deal with how Glendon is presented. He would like to make CUS and CUS more relevant to the students.

Weston advocates a high school advisory committee to help improve the Ontario education system. An exchange of students with Laval or another Quebec university for a whole semester would also be an interesting possibility. The Glendale student would be in residence and attend classes there.

Weston feels that external affairs should help council to establish a goal for university government.

The two candidates clash over the role of CUS. Kidd feels that it should deal not only with relations between universities but also with high schools to help high school students understand the university. Kidd opposes the full monitoring of university programmes by CUS because he believes it is more interesting in CUS achieving a purpose as a union for the university students.

When asked why he was running for this position, Weston replied, "If the one I find personally most interesting is the student council. It offers a fundamental outlook of the whole country and can affect every student on this campus."

Bruce Kidd replied, "I have an interest in many parts of the department, in social action, in CUS, and in relationships with other universities. I have ideas and want to express them."

COUNCIL MUST PROVE ITSELF

Disappointed but relieved, Glendon's new president Jim Park greeted the news of his acclamation. "An acclamation can be viewed in two ways," he said, "as a unanimous mandate or a complete loss of interest." Unfortunately, he views the latter explanation as the most probable. "This council has to prove itself immediately," said Park. "We must get the students interested and involved in council activities.

Last year the felt the problem lay in council's administrative image. This year the council must become more uniformly interested in the four areas of activity: the student, academia, university, and external communities.

In anticipation of the difficult period ahead, he reaffirmed what he will strive to resurrect as the council's key purposes: "to make itself relevant and important in the purpose of the student body, which it can only do through action."

A NEW PHILOSOPHY

"The purpose of Student Council is not to do things for students, but to do things for themselves." The idea of this statement, bearing a striking resemblance to that of the late John F. Kennedy, is the major force in the efforts of Andy Graham recently acclaimed council vice-president, for more total student involvement in Glendon.

"Council should be decentralized in philosophy as we

VOTE YES ON MONDAY

Put control of fee increases in YOUR hands

[We need a 50% turnout to make the referendum valid]

YEAR REPS

Doug Newson and Linda Martin were acclaimed as third and fourth year reps respectively. Oliver Kent and Michael Patten are contesting the second-year position.

Patten is a day student. He does not think that students should run the university but is in agreement with the present student administration set-up.

Kent believes the problem of fee increases warrants investigation. He is also in favour of investigating the union of the faculty and student council.

Nigger 'still too obscene' for some struck three student newspapers who tried to print "the Student as Nigger" last week (Jan 21-27).

Ottawa (CUP)—Censorship

Alan Rimoin, editor of the Argosy Weekly from Mount Allison University in Sackville, N.B., Stephen Foster, editor of the College Times from Prince of Wales College in Charlottetown, P.R.I., and Kevin Peterson, editor of the Gauntlet from the University of Calgary, Alta., were each turned down by their regular printers.

Rimoin and Foster approached seven other printers but found each unwilling to risk court action for obscenity. They returned to the university to print the article, planning to run the article off on the university's photo-offset machine but found that the executive assistant to the president of the university had left orders prohibiting the use of the machine.

Arrangements were finally made through Canadian University Press to have the article printed in Montreal and flown to the two campuses. However, the Editorial Advisory Board of the Ar gosy has recommended the firing of Editor-in-chief Alan Rimoin.

Peterson mimeographed and hand-inserted the article, "The Student as Nigger," in this week's Gauntlet.

The article compares the student's subservient role to professors and administrators to the role of slaves.

Jerry Farber, author of "Student as Nigger" is an English lecturer at California State University at Los Angeles. In an interview, Farber said that administrators, by interfering in the reprinting of the article, were "just acting in the good old institutional way—trying to stifle or put down any attempt of the part of the students to grow up," Farber urged mandatory papers to reprint 'Nigger' in press.

Excelsior printed the article in a pre-Christmas issue.

STUDENT'S!

Referendum on Student Council Fees

VOTE YES ON MONDAY

Put control of fee increases in YOUR hands

[We need a 50% turnout to make the referendum valid]
Glendon College is probably the most self-conscious educational institution in the world. At least this is the impression that its official bodies, mainly the student council, would seem to give it.

Every time a lack of student interest in students' politics is discovered the cry "apathy" flies out. But, what? Let us examine the term for a moment. Why were there such so many acclamations in such key posts as president, vice-president, etc.?

First, no one from the previous council ran. These people are the already proclaimed and acknowledged leaders of the student world. When there was no universal reason why they didn't run. The reasons were personal, varied, and individual, perhaps feared for their academic careers. This must be the last reason ever to be criticized. Some have been involved in student politics ever since they were able to hold a pencil. Are we to establish the time of their "white-man's burden"? Perhaps, but the criticism cannot stick. It is not a presentation of the individual's rights and privileges. One member of the former council, Bob McGaw, has hopefully gone on to new and better things with his idea for a political career. Perhaps too many reasons of the general ineffectualness and nit-picking of the last council which must have frustrated more than one member.

What about all those eleven candidates for first year representative last fall? What has happened to their interest? Only two of them have run again. Three more, of course, are part of the ex-council "cop-out". For the remainder, perhaps they ran in the first place without realizing the time-consuming nature of the job. Then when they were "in" they realized that their academic courses required as much attention as they did they gave up trying to combine the two. The present members were quite happy playing politics in the first weeks of classes but when they finally realized where they were and what their priorities were to be they decided that students' council was not one of them. Maybe this can be applied everywhere. It takes a very dedicated person to combine any long term interest in politics in this country. That person must work twice as hard to keep up the two major aspects of his campus life, not to mention his body. Perhaps the social life should be given up. The student, righteously rejected in favour of complete obliviousness to the idea of a student council, is less the student as the apathy is]

To panic over interest in the decline in political involvement, as the acclamations would tend to exemplify, is not to look at the complete picture. The whole picture includes at least three very powerful drawing cards leading away from student council participation in students' council. There is this newspaper, PRO TEM, the Glendon Forum and the special Glendon Forum project. This is not to mention the many other activities and clubs and organizations on the campus--political, social, athletic, academic, literary and so on. And, for the students' council positions and six or other subsidiary positions are more representative of a student population--large and small--of about seven hundred. Perhaps the number of student council positions has reached a point, if not surpassed, the saturation point of so small a campus. Granted, one of the professed aims of this college is to develop students with an active and aware interest in public affairs. The whole picture includes the generalized apathy,殆然 the inactivity of those interested in politics. "The people they meet in Orientation Week, many months back. Lectures could be held at the end of the school year to prepare students for the real world outside and determine an individual role in that world for ourselves.

I think the optimistic ending of a successful Glendon College experiment, Gut reaction

PRO TEM will conduct a student critique of the Glendon College faculty on Wednesday, February 8, and Thursday, February 9, between 11:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m. It will be a controlled survey, with only one questionnaire per registered student.

LETTERS

Ed. note: We like it. photo by HARVE

GLENCLON DIALOGUE

By JANIE BOW

Glendon College is part of York University. We know that York knows that. But how many people really feel that Glendon and York are "one and the same"? Down here there is a definite tendency towards rivalry with the other campus. We decided to find out the other side of the story. We asked students at the other campus if they felt Glendon added anything to York University, and if they liked Glendon.

CAROL LATCHFORD, V

I don’t think Glendon adds anything at all to York. There are two separate parts of the two campuses.

SUSAN SMILEY, F III

It is difficult for the university to become integrated because it is difficult for York students to get off campus. But I like saving Glendon as part of York which in the measure of the educational ideas it will, will contribute something to the university.

BEVANNE KIELY, F

I think of Glendon as part of York University, but it is different from the other colleges because it is so isolated in distance, courses, and the fact that it is its own little community, Glendon adds a definite flavour to York.

JOHN NAGE, V

Glendon is a traditional, like Trinity College, York are the innovators, it is more modern, I think Glendon, educationally is good, but it is very isolated. I’m going to Toronto for a bilingual college. It has done nothing for me, or a lot of us, really. I’m looked down on within the next fifteen years.

YORK BIOLOGY PROF WHO REFUSED US NAME

No, No. I think the idea of starting a new small university in Toronto was a mistake. I think of York, it is a big university, and Glendon tries to be distinctive, different. If Glendon does not add anything to York it is their fault, not ours.

Suggested speech For our new student council president

By DAVID BEARDS

It’s been a long, hard campaign, A 1 campaign. The acid test is in the air, No longer are we all at sea because eyes are on us When all is said and done, I have no axe to grind, but I’ll get my word out and say, “thank you my loyal voters’. Now we have the best of both worlds, so blow hot and cold on these vital issues. We must break new ground, understand each other and get that undying struggle against apathy. In a blue moon, a candidate comes along who so dominates the field that all contenders

DAVE LOFTUS, V

I think the general attitude is, "They’re different in us, aren’t they?"
Student union to decide own activity fee

BY JOAN SHIRLAW

The administration will no longer have the final control over the amount of money Glendon students give their student council. An act was passed unanimously last Monday by the Glendon Student Council to give the student union the power to decide the fees they should pay to maintain their student government.

A referendum will be held each year to determine the amount. At least half the student union must vote in the referendum and of these, at least two thirds must approve a change before it can be implemented.

At present $7.00 of your $53.00 tuition goes to the student council. However the council does not feel that it can operate on this amount unless the enrollment increases tremendously.

A referendum to ratify the new act will be held on Monday, February 5, in conjunction with the student council elections.

Council also unanimously passed President Al Whitely's submission to the student council. Whitely said, "The system is not the only way to operate and I hope the student union will vote to change things on its own merits." This act is a step toward creating a new body to operate on the student council.

The submission suggests a one year experiment for Glendon where there will be a board-senate-student joint committee which has the power to make any changes.

Big plans have been laid for this week-end and all the components of a good time will be present. Winter Carnival is coming!

Friday night, Skaters Swirl, featuring Debbie Wilkes, the 1967 Junior Pairs and Canadian champion of Canada, and the Yorkapettes and Yorkettes will be presented to day and all free of charge.

Afterwards, Croak, the popular Glendon College Review, will take the stage and still later you can listen to Len Udow, winner of the Macdonald Folk Festival, who will be singing in the Pipe Room.

Saturday will be a big day with football, hockey, skating races, volleyball, broomball and swimming, climaxed by a free dance at 8:30. On Sunday morning a giant snowball fight will rage in front of Hilliard Residence. In the afternoon a motorcy- cle race will be held and there will be a guest star, actress Trump Davidson. At 4:00 judges will inspect all the magnificent works of ice sculpture and award the prize in the evening. At 7:00 p.m. the movie "A Thousand Clowns" will be shown.

Such is the program of this coming week-end. As Jim Carlisle, one of the organizers said, "We have a chance here for a really exciting Carnival but its up to the students to come out and make it a success.'

Drop out and learn, says Western honours student

LONDON, ONT. (CUP) — A University of Western Ontario student has suggested that students drop out in order to get an education.

Allan Fraser, a third-year honors English student, and current editor of Folio, We- stern's campus newspaper, feels that he cannot learn anything worthwhile from the university, and would rather work on something else.

"I feel that I have to quit in order to gain the background knowledge necessary for the course," he said.

On Tuesday, the selection of Bob WaIler, former Managing Editor of PRO TEM, as Editor-in-Chief of the newspaper for 1968-69 was approved at last Monday's council meeting.

Library responds to book theft

CONCERN over the lack of control over library materi- al has led to the installation of a bellcrank and turnstile in the lobby of the Leslie Frost Library.

In addition, a new automatic changing system utilizing a-t-c cards will be inaugurated during the first week of the fall term.

The plastic card and punch- card transaction card are placed in the machine which demand the patron's name, number and the due date on the transaction card.

A forty minute colour film on the use of the library will be shown from Febru- ary 1 to February 3 in the group study room on the second floor of the library. The film describes the literature research techniques, outlines reference, resources, the potential of government documents and micro- reprography.

The production will run continuously each day from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m., 9 p.m. to 11 p.m., 11 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.

CLEANLINESS PERSONALIZED AIR CONDITIONED

Lawrence Plaza Barber Shop

530 Lawrence Avenue

RU. 11631

RIDE WANTED to Quebec City

Call Jeane Hare 483-9270

Peter McWhirter 923-7876

NAASSA after final exams!

COLLEGE WEEK includes first class return flight, luxurious accommoda- tions, sumptuous meals, en- tertainment, etc., etc. Price tailored for students.

Call Jane Hare

9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 2

FOOLINO'S BARBERSHOP

Founders College Residence

Main Floor

9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

FOOLINO'S BARBERSHOP

Founders College Residence

Main Floor

9 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Tues. to Sat.

Student Haircut — $1.50

Student Wash & Set — $2.50

CONCERN over the lack of control over library materi- al has led to the installation of a bellcrank and turnstile in the lobby of the Leslie Frost Library.

In addition, a new automatic changing system utilizing a-t-c cards will be inaugurated during the first week of the fall term.

The plastic card and punch- card transaction card are placed in the machine which demand the patron's name, number and the due date on the transaction card.

A forty minute colour film on the use of the library will be shown from Febru- ary 1 to February 3 in the group study room on the second floor of the library. The film describes the literature research techniques, outlines reference, resources, the potential of government documents and micro- reprography.

The production will run continuously each day from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m., 9 p.m. to 11 p.m., 11 p.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.
Rebels Climb into Second Place

New York state colleges that make up the Finger Lakes League, a member of Division 3 of the East Coast Athletic Conference. Their overall record this year now stands at 11 wins, 6 losses, and 1 tie. All but one of the opponents was rated in the top 20 cases, mainly from the New England area. None of them, however, were on athletic scholarships, but play simply for the love of the game. Their performance was a tribute to the fast-approaching brand of hockey played in the States.

scored on a screen shot and Neely connected on a breakaway. By then the game was far from over.

Eason opened the scoring 1:05 of the first period when Bob McDow打入 the puck up right in front of the net. McBryde got his first of the night 5 minutes later with Beliveau getting the assist. McBryde had just finished serving a penalty when he scored. Pollard followed with 2 goals and Pollard scored on a breakaway, and York was off and running. The Rebels saved their prettiest goal of the game until the final period. With a York player in the penalty box, Pollard put McBryde in the clear with a perfect pass, and Doug fired it into the net for his hat trick. The win moved York into undisputed possession of second place in the whole league. Ahead of Waterloo Lutheran, Laurentian would appear to have the league title wrapped up. They’re still undefeated after weekend wins of 5-2 over Waterloo Lutheran and 5-0 over hapless Brock. Unofficially Pollard is still the league’s leading scorer with 26 goals this year. Nonetheless, York looks like a sure bet to solidify their hold on second place in the tough O.I.A.A.

For the Rebels, Childe was magnificent in goal with Pollard and Modray being the standouts offensively. Also rating special mention is Mike Beliveau, who had a good game. Two of the Rebels’ 4 goals came from Beliveau and were close to scoring several times.

On Tuesday, the Rebels held a solid hold on second place in the OIAA Tuesday night as they demolished winless Brock University 10-2. Kent Pollard and Doug McBryde were the big guns for the Rebels, each recording a hat trick and 2 assists for a total of 5 points each. Bruce Eason had 2 goals and 2 assists, and Mike Beliveau had 2 goals and 1 assist to round out York’s scoring. As the old cliché goes, the score wasn’t indicative of the play. York hit the post 5 times and shot wide of the open corner on several other occasions. The Rebels had managed only about 15 shots on goal in the whole game, and most of the play took place in the Brock end of the rink. York’s brilliant goaltender, Frank Childs, had an easy night for a change. Brock managed to break his shutout late in the third period, when McArthur only to be foiled by the superior goaltending of York’s Frank Childs.

As it was, Oakwood’s defensive play was almost enough to win. York could manage to break through for only one goal in the first two periods, with Barry Whnage to break through for York’s second on a pass from Terry Ruffell.

The final score of the game was 3-0 York, and the Rebels dropped to 2nd place in the O.I.A.A. Their next game is against Waterloo University next weekend. Only a win for the Rebels will keep them close to York in their prettiest goal of the game until the final period. With a York player in the penalty box, Pollard put McBryde in the clear with a perfect pass, and Doug fired it into the net for his hat trick. The win moved York into undisputed possession of second place in the whole league. Ahead of Waterloo Lutheran, Laurentian would appear to have the league title wrapped up. They’re still undefeated after weekend wins of 5-2 over Waterloo Lutheran and 5-0 over hapless Brock. Unofficially Pollard is still the league’s leading scorer with 26 goals this year. Nonetheless, York looks like a sure bet to solidify their hold on second place in the tough O.I.A.A.

The playoffs will be made up of the top four teams playing for the trophy, while the next four teams will vie for a consolation trophy. In this way greater interest and competition should result.