To postpone the debt for Canada. The requirement to do about twenty at the time when Nick Martin began coverage of the local sports scene.

One wonders if the Serpent of the Don has had its final say in all this debacle. The polluted Don meanders on, despite (according to Martin), the serpent's efforts to plug, overflow that turpid water, and severely damage this campus beyond recognition. But then, there is always the Vite Squirrel who just might rescue us, steal the doomed ballot box, and throw it in the Don for good.

At the general meeting of the Student Union held last Wednesday it was pointed out that the change by Student Council last year of the referendum from a two-thirds requirement to a simple majority was unconstitutional.

In order to change the referendum rule it is necessary to take it to a referendum vote itself. Therefore a two-thirds approves of the electorate will be necessary to obtain the fees increase.

It was also decided by the people at the end of the meeting, who numbered about twenty at the time, to make the fees increase for this year only. This would mean that next year the student fees would only be $17 if council needed additional money a fees referendum would be necessary again.

PRO TEM office without fees increase? The last of the great fire tramp.

Volume IX, Number 6, Toronto, Canada, October 14, 1969.

What do you want? Where do we go from here?

By ANDY MICHALSKI

Tomorrow, Glendon students will be asked to approve a $10 fees increase for this year. The additional funds will be used for the expansion of club activities on this campus. One of these "clubs" is this newspaper, it is the greatest question to this newspaper since Nick Martin began coverage of the local sports scene. The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Czech Communist Party has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Australian has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Czech Communist Party has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Australian has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Czech Communist Party has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Australian has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Czech Communist Party has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Australian has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Czech Communist Party has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Australian has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Czech Communist Party has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.

The Australian has a purge now and then to clean out activity does one notice the lack of money.

The paradox is that only when one begins to participate in any student activity does one notice the lack of money.

Student Council is not a fraternity, though some may question that; and L'Association Culturelle Artistique is not a sorority, and no doubt, some will question that. They are all contributing cliques to campus life. The only way to change a clique, or its contributions, is to join it, weaken it, and change it.
COUNCIL 'ORDER' TO OVERRIDE GROUP PARTICIPATION

By DAVID STARBUCK

Orderly procedure is more important than community participation and openness. This is one of the general fundamentals laid down in the report of the Faculty Council's Committee on Rules and Procedure. The report was presented to the Council last Thursday at the Faculty Council meeting in the Board-Senate room by Professor William Schacht, chairman of the committee.

Echard stated, "The Committee was concerned with orderly operation. Too often we allowed the operation of Faculty Council to break down. This report should establish 'a fair and judicious method of reaching decisions.'"

"The Committee was concerned with maximal participation of the college community and maximal openness. However, this was subordinated to an order of orderly procedure." Faculty Council moved into Committee of the Whole for a preliminary discussion. The debate should continue at the next meeting with the detailed study of the new rules.

Spectator attendance reached an all-time high of nine as some of the student candidates for Faculty Council decided that they should make an appearance to find out what it is all about. The Committee on Examinations and Academic Standards presented some proposed guidelines to deal with plagiarism. Under the new rules, an instructor receiving a plagiarized essay, or one which could be plagiarized, would reject the essay, assign a mark of zero and advise the student to redo the essay. If the assignment was redone, the grade of zero would be deleted and a new grade put in its place. Professor Walter Feingold who presented the report, thought that this was "the most sensible procedure."

A Definition of Plagiarism

The Committee intends to present a definition of plagiarism to Council soon. Several professors objected to these proposed guidelines. History Professor John Bruckmann opposed the guidelines because "if there is no penalty, it is an open invitation to plagiarize."

Philosophy Department Chairman H.S. Harris stated, "I believe the individual professor should be at liberty to decide the case as he wishes."

The report was referred back to CEAS for further examination and study.

The report of the Committee chairman on the subject of lively debate. Several members objected to one decision which denied a fourth year student who was forced to work because of financial difficulties to take only four courses this year and one at Atkinson next summer.

The committee recommended that "in view of his economic situation, the petitioner should carefully consider the advisability of transferring to part-time study," because there was no precedent to cover his case.

Harris objects

Harris, the committee chairman, objected to the council intervening in the affairs of his committee.

"The reports committee is a disciplinary body with respect to petitions as the department is with respect to departmental matters. It makes as little sense for Faculty Council to retry petitions as it would to review departmental problems."

"It is not good sense nor fair justice, to the student to deny already granted petitions. Neither is it fair to the committee to only discuss ungranted petitions."

"Faculty Council should discuss only issues of general interest. If a decision is made, the committee, in its good judgment, would review any cases which are related to the decision."

English Department Chairman Michael Gregory differed. The committee's discretionary powers, he believed, are limited to the extent that if a member of council disagrees with the ruling, he can refer it to council, Jim Jack, a student Faculty Councilor, retorted. "The one for appeal, if an appeal does exist, should be brought forward by the petitioner. The petitioner always has the right to appeal."

Echard thought that the two sides were not in fundamental disagreement. "I see no real disagreement. Faculty Council has the right to interfere. Petitioners have a right to appeal. The principle, in general, is that Faculty Council allows the committee discretionary power, but retains the right to establish general guidelines for the committee," he said.

Gregory then moved that although Faculty Council gives the petitions committee general discretionary power with regards to petitions it considers, it reserves the right to questions particular cases.

The motion was passed unanimously although there were seven abstentions. David Copp, a student Faculty Councilor then moved, with regard to the original problem, that "a student taking from four to six courses be considered a full-time student."

Grounds for denial

Harris then elaborated on the ground for denial of the petition. Present regulations state that each student take a five course year. The committee must act within the concepts of full year and full-time student. Unless this is the only change, I suggest that this motion be referred to CEAS as part of a general re-evaluation. The petitions can only act within the bounds of present regulations."

Echard opposed the referral to council. However the referral was carried by a vote of nineteen to seven.

Reid: Glendon is a success

Principal Escott Reid read a statement in which he said that he thought that the growth of Glendon College so far indicated that it was a success.

He compared the 860 students enrolled in the Glendon year of existence to 703 students at Brock University, 750 students at Trent University and 506 students at York University in their fourth year of existence. Reid also pointed out that Glendon had only $5,000 worth of scholarships available to it this year while it would have had $132,000 if it had a scholarship program similar to that of York in its fourth year of existence.

He expressed faith that College would reach its goal of 1,250 students by 1972. David Cole, a student Faculty Councilor withdrew his motion to change the names of the Department of Political Science and Division of Social Science to the Department of Political Studies and Social Studies respectively.
Course unions wheeze
By ANDRE FOUCAL'T and JIM ALBRIGHT

'Course unions gasp' is not quite true these days. They are wheezing a bit but most unions have developed considerably in the last two weeks.
The English department students held a meeting on September 24. The turnout proved to be disappointing since only 10 of the 500 eligible members were present. However, among the few there, the reaction was one of endorsement for the formation of the union.

Michael Gregory from the English faculty was there and also supported its formation and said that personally he was in favour of faculty-student parity on all committees. The formation of the English course union is still pending since the poor turnout could hardly be called representative. Another meeting has been scheduled for noon, Thursday, the 16th of October.

History Failure
Third year student Sandy McKay reported this week about the failure in the History department to establish as of yet a course union along the lines advocated by the Students' Council. This failure is a result of a poor initial response to the proposition.

Last year there was established within the History department a Curriculum Committee which worked on a principle of parity between students and faculty. According to McKay there now exists 'an ideological conflict' of which kind of student representation will be exerted in the department. The choice is then between a course union on the same lines as those that are now being operated in other departments or the continuation of the Curriculum Committee with an advisory student plenum. McKay endorses the latter.

He explains that the present body is a responsive body, and that it is able to deal with all the problems and issues that arise, curriculum content, appointments and course structure. Questions which will undoubtedly present themselves during the year may also be the lack of participation of women in the department and its courses, an increase in the number of bilingual courses and the development of greater emphasis in Canadian History. A meeting will be called for Thursday, Oct. 20, at 1 p.m. in Room 129. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the problem and possibly gather more support for this point of view. The extra four members needed to have parity on the committee may be elected.

Ontario Student Awards Program
DEADLINE is October 31st, 1969

If applications are submitted after October 31st, awards are based on one-half of the assessed needs.
Monetary crisis

This paper is directly affected by the outcome of the referendum and in its own self-interest must support the request, however we cannot contain our ratiocination to the betterment of only the campus newspaper.

L’Araignée, which comprises hope people will expand the limited amount of bilingualism and biculturalism at the time this proposal is being discussed needs to remove the debts it has incurred with installation of a sound system that can now only be heard.

Bruce Kidd’s External Affairs section of the Student Union will be greatly curtailed in its social action program if the referendum fails to receive the necessary two-thirds approval. The student council has earmarked by council for the bursary fund if the fees increase has student approval. The bursary aims students find that they need a hard time financially and this will be dropped if student fees remain the same.

Correspondence from the Glendon Forum, two groups that bring to this campus various people and groups will face budget cuts if the referendum fails. How much more can be said about the fees referendum? We can show how the fees increase is necessary.

The impression one walked away with from the Political Science course meeting last week was that T.K. Olson, chairman of the department was very smart, or very stupid.

When asked to comment on these proposals Olson attempted to evade the question by saying he did not have the meeting discuss problems of the department (for example changes for next year, new faculty for 1970-71). When asked to think about why he did not write about what was on the agenda, Olson stated that he didn’t understand the proposals, even though at least two representatives from the union had seen him previously about the three ideas.

We wonder about Olson’s performance points to the reluctance of faculty members to discuss the concepts of student participation. Perhaps one of Olson’s comments is of value. When the students at the meeting showed a lack of interest in discussing his priorities he said that his pres. election last year when students made suggestions concerning departmental decisions. It seems amazing that he feels that students request for more say in departmental affairs is a regression.

The following letter, written with the blood of a freshly killed ediliver and enemy of freedom, was received in the PRO TEM office yesterday, It has been translated into a facsimile of English by our sports staff, who all speak fluent beaver.

Dear Sirs,

Last night, as I relaxed in my secret headquarters, the Beaver Dam, I received a terrifying call on the Beaver Phone. The news which I got was so disconcerting that for a moment I thought it was someastardly trickery execrated by our arch-enemy, the Viet Squirrel, the giant villain fitted with supernatural powers beyond those of any mortal squirrel.

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.

Letters/’Let’s ostracize’

We are in the process of electing new members to our student council, the government of our student body.

Yet we have among us those who are trying to disrupt our government by resorting to such tactics as destroying election materials and campaign posters, as was done to one of the candidates on Thursday evening, only one day after the campaign has begun.

What will they do next, bomb future election meetings or burn down the campus? In an attempt to destroy us and our friends, are they going to discourage next-year students from running for our student council?

This is the way in which they express their freedom of speech, these are the ones who are a real threat to democracy.

Either we are going to have no campus, or we are going to have a student government. Are these our future anarchists? Is this their way of protesting against the government?

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

No garbage pails

If someone put a garbage pail under each of the notice boards, I'd be tempted to tear down old notices, but I refuse to carry around two pails until I stumble into a garbage pail. (There must be a garbage pail in this college somewhere.)

Who is the Masked Beaver?

The following letter, written with the blood of a freshly killed ediliver and enemy of freedom, was received in the PRO TEM office yesterday, It has been translated into a facsimile of English by our sports staff, who all speak fluent beaver.

Dear Sirs,

Last night, as I relaxed in my secret headquarters, the Beaver Dam, I received a terrifying call on the Beaver Phone. The news which I got was so disconcerting that for a moment I thought it was someastardly trickery execrated by our arch-enemy, the Viet Squirrel, the giant villain fitted with supernatural powers beyond those of any mortal squirrel.

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.

Letters/’Let’s ostracize’

We are in the process of electing new members to our student council, the government of our student body.

Yet we have among us those who are trying to disrupt our government by resorting to such tactics as destroying election materials and campaign posters, as was done to one of the candidates on Thursday evening, only one day after the campaign has begun.

What will they do next, bomb future election meetings or burn down the campus? In an attempt to destroy us and our friends, are they going to discourage next-year students from running for our student council?

This is the way in which they express their freedom of speech, these are the ones who are a real threat to democracy.

Either we are going to have no campus, or we are going to have a student government. Are these our future anarchists? Is this their way of protesting against the government?

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.

Letters/’Let’s ostracize’

We are in the process of electing new members to our student council, the government of our student body.

Yet we have among us those who are trying to disrupt our government by resorting to such tactics as destroying election materials and campaign posters, as was done to one of the candidates on Thursday evening, only one day after the campaign has begun.

What will they do next, bomb future election meetings or burn down the campus? In an attempt to destroy us and our friends, are they going to discourage next-year students from running for our student council?

This is the way in which they express their freedom of speech, these are the ones who are a real threat to democracy.

Either we are going to have no campus, or we are going to have a student government. Are these our future anarchists? Is this their way of protesting against the government?

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.

Letters/’Let’s ostracize’

We are in the process of electing new members to our student council, the government of our student body.

Yet we have among us those who are trying to disrupt our government by resorting to such tactics as destroying election materials and campaign posters, as was done to one of the candidates on Thursday evening, only one day after the campaign has begun.

What will they do next, bomb future election meetings or burn down the campus? In an attempt to destroy us and our friends, are they going to discourage next-year students from running for our student council?

This is the way in which they express their freedom of speech, these are the ones who are a real threat to democracy.

Either we are going to have no campus, or we are going to have a student government. Are these our future anarchists? Is this their way of protesting against the government?

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.

Letters/’Let’s ostracize’

We are in the process of electing new members to our student council, the government of our student body.

Yet we have among us those who are trying to disrupt our government by resorting to such tactics as destroying election materials and campaign posters, as was done to one of the candidates on Thursday evening, only one day after the campaign has begun.

What will they do next, bomb future election meetings or burn down the campus? In an attempt to destroy us and our friends, are they going to discourage next-year students from running for our student council?

This is the way in which they express their freedom of speech, these are the ones who are a real threat to democracy.

Either we are going to have no campus, or we are going to have a student government. Are these our future anarchists? Is this their way of protesting against the government?

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.

Letters/’Let’s ostracize’

We are in the process of electing new members to our student council, the government of our student body.

Yet we have among us those who are trying to disrupt our government by resorting to such tactics as destroying election materials and campaign posters, as was done to one of the candidates on Thursday evening, only one day after the campaign has begun.

What will they do next, bomb future election meetings or burn down the campus? In an attempt to destroy us and our friends, are they going to discourage next-year students from running for our student council?

This is the way in which they express their freedom of speech, these are the ones who are a real threat to democracy.

Either we are going to have no campus, or we are going to have a student government. Are these our future anarchists? Is this their way of protesting against the government?

But, lack-a-day, it was a poor but honest citizen, the fire marshal to be specific, who sought my aid. His plightful cries were so pathetic, were so quick to bring a tear to my eye, that I immediately climbed to my mung-mobile and hurried to investigate the situation, first hand, as it were.

Woe of woe, everything he had said was true. Your office is a greater disaster area than any I have ever increased in my war against evil, communism, perversion, and athlete’s foot.
Majority Rule

His party was the Brotherhood of Brothers, and there were more of them than of the others. That is, they constituted that minority which formed the greater part of the majority. Within the party, he was of the faction that was supported by the greater fraction. And in each group, within each group, he sought the group that could command the most support. The final group had finally elected a triumvirate whom they all respected. Now of these three, two had the final word, because the two could overrule the third. One of these two was relatively weak, so one alone stood at the final peak.

He was THE GREATER NUMBER of the pair which formed the most part of the three that were elected by the most of those whose boast it was to represent the most of most of most of the total inhabitants - or of the most of the largest number. He never gave himself a moment's slumber but sought the welfare of the greatest number.

And all the people, everywhere they went, knew to their cost exactly what it meant to be dictated to by the majority.

But that meant nothing - they were the minority.

- Piet Hein

---

Your Student Council candidates

Reid Laird

Reid Laird's main concern about Student Council is the democratization of the body and the communication problem that the council seems to have with the student body.

"The purpose of Student Council should be to represent the feelings of the students. Council has found itself alienated from the community as a whole and I hope to close the gap."

Laird believes that this lack of representation is due to the lack of communication between the Union and the students. "Council says here is an issue and the student body expresses a feeling of not really caring." Instead, "I want to talk with the students -- I want to be a representative of the students."

"The referendums have my support for one main reason: L'Arche is in great need of money and I think that this activity could bring a considerable amount of financial help."

To Laird the other big issue before council is the democratization proposal submitted by Toby Fyfe and David Phillips which proposes that everyone who attends a council meeting should have a vote. "It disgusts me that the apathy they talk about is true."

---

Mike Lunycz

Student Council should be a liaison between the student body and the Administration. They should pass on demands and opinions to the administrators on the functions that they are planning. This is the view of Mike Lunycz, a candidate for councillor at-large.

"This would mean a predominantly academic role but it may include other things that concern the student," Lunycz said.

Lunycz was at first opposed to the idea of course unions for he didn't know their purpose. "However, I have noticed course problems and I think that the unions will be very helpful in changing these situations. Their success however, depends on greater involvement on the part of the students."

The budget that has been proposed by council could be cut in certain places according to Lunycz. He does think that a fee increase is necessary but he believes that ten dollars is perhaps too much to ask. The democratization proposal is favoured by Lunycz. "Although we may encounter problems in the beginning I think that democratization can work."

Lunycz feels that the council at present doesn't represent the majority of students. He hopes that his election will bring council more in line with student opinion.

Lunycz concluded that he was running because he believed: "I feel that I have the gift or ability to bring about a compromise between opposing groups."

---

Tony Signoroni

Tony Signoroni has declined the opportunity of an interview. He doesn't feel that it is necessary to express his own opinions.

His campaign consists of talking to people and finding out what their views are as to the role, purpose and programs of council.

"My personal opinions are not as important as the opinions and beliefs of the people that I will attempt to represent."

---

David Klein

David Klein declined to hold an interview but submitted a statement in place of it.

"Being elected by acclamation makes an acceptance statement a difficult task. Indeed, I cannot thank those who supported me; I cannot promise to carry out any mandate I have been given. Yet I am certain that had I stood for any other position the election would have been hotly contested. In other words the lack of interest in the first year election represents nothing but an understandable and forgivable carry-over of Ontario high school apathy."

I can only promise to help other recent secondary school graduates awaken from their five year coma and participate actively and intelligently in the affairs of the Glendon community."

So much for participatory democracy.

---

Paul Johnston

Paul Johnston, who has been acclaimed to the post of first-year representative on Student Council, puts his hopes in the idea of democratization.

"The democratization proposal will allow the great student air to dissipate. Involvement on the part of the students is essential. Although the fear of pressure politics is valid, I don't think it outweighs the advantages of direct student vote."

The fees increase, to Johnston, is vital to the future of the student union and its council, "If the referendum is not passed, then the Council will run on a starvation budget, I will definitely vote 'Yes' on the referendum."

---

Councillors-at-large

Interviews by DAVID MOULTON with photos by OTTLEY

---

Acclaimed First Year representatives

---
A working knowledge of the educational situation at Glendon and an insight into the nature of learning have led Elliot Allen to put to the Tucker Report as exemplary of his own policy, but he has taken it step further.

"The report" held back in stating its philosophical goals, it hasn't stated directly that it wants to get away from structures that are left over from the family and secondary school systems -- authoritarianism and spoon feeding -- then these are the barriers to real education.

Elliot Allen is particularly enthusiastic about the recommendations for the seminar system. He emulates the Sociology 253 seminars in which team teaching and dialogue between instructors has proven very successful. He is also strongly in favour of the upgraded degree proposals.

"It would create a group of people who were really excited about genuine education, and who were not simply politically enthusiastic, but enthusiastic about the whole living situation of the Glendon Community and the influence of the various groups across the campus."

Elliot Allen is optimistic about career changes within the college. Those who were not impressed with the Tucker report. "It's an important issue," says Del Buono, "that the faculty members who are not impressed with the Tucker report not be discouraged from trying to get into the field."

"Parity is an important issue for Beadle. He is a great believer in the politics of the Tucker report, in terms of increasing the bilingual and multicultural nature of Glendon College.

"We need to have a greater representation of people from the academic rules to which he is subject."

Robert Beadle argues that faculty members who are not impressed with the Tucker report not be discouraged from trying to get into the field. "The Tucker report is that the faculty members who are not impressed with the Tucker report not be discouraged from trying to get into the field."

"There must be a better way of representing the student community, I don't believe students will be satisfied with their small representation in policy-making which is directly contrary to their academic interests and desires."
Oliver Kent
By DAVID STARBUCK

Humanization of the evaluation process and parity on Faculty Council are the goals of Oliver Kent.

Kent bases his push for parity on two points. The first is that faculty and the administration must show a willingness to accept parity. He does this as an idea, not as an idea of who is going to force parity on the faculty.

The second is that there should be a mass of students willing and capable of participating in the decision-making process before parity is enacted. Kent is concerned about avoiding confrontations between faculty and students. He doesn’t want a separation of students and faculty into individual plenums.

"It is not worth accepting anything less than parity in a restructured legislative council," Kent stated. However, he does not believe that parity is essential on all committees, particularly promotion and tenure committees.

The evaluation process is Kent’s other main area of concern. He believes that the means of evaluation in any course should be determined by students and faculty in that course.

"A reasoned critique is the guts of evaluation," Kent says, "much better than an A-B-C rating." Kent favours a credit/no credit system, in which failure would indicate non-participation rather than incompetence. He is against the pass/fail system.

The college staff should not be represented on Faculty Council, Kent believes.

"In university government as a whole, the staff should have a voice; in the academic world, they have the best chance to push for them."
Dave Varty
By ANDRE FOUCALUT

Dave Varty says that there should be increased participation in the course unions since he hopes, eventually, that these unions will be the channels of student representation on the Faculties Council.

He believes that the duties of a representative are to represent, in order to facilitate this, the representatives should be drawn from groups of interests or, more technically, from within the departmental boundaries.

He also expresses interest in recruitment for the campus. To emphasize the importance of recruitment, he stated: "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

The people who object to the compulsory general education requirement have, he stated, "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

If a candidate problem is parity, he sees that the present form of having the chairmen of each department belong to the council be changed so that a candidate problem is parity. He sees this as an equal representation of faculty and students within the college, and a consideration of the ideas brought forth in the college as a community of scholars.

Don Walker
By JIM ALBRIGHT

Recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council. He believes that Glendon is a university and that the college needs a representative of student opinion on Faculty Council, but someone to whom authority has been delegated.

He also stated: "It's too hard to be a representative of everybody. You can talk to people and get their ideas but I don't think that's being representative." He also said that recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council.

The people who object to the compulsory general education requirement have, he stated, "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

If a candidate problem is parity, he sees that the present form of having the chairmen of each department belong to the council be changed so that a candidate problem is parity. He sees this as an equal representation of faculty and students within the college, and a consideration of the ideas brought forth in the college as a community of scholars.

Don Walker
By JIM ALBRIGHT

Recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council. He believes that Glendon is a university and that the college needs a representative of student opinion on Faculty Council, but someone to whom authority has been delegated.

He also stated: "It's too hard to be a representative of everybody. You can talk to people and get their ideas but I don't think that's being representative." He also said that recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council.

The people who object to the compulsory general education requirement have, he stated, "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

If a candidate problem is parity, he sees that the present form of having the chairmen of each department belong to the council be changed so that a candidate problem is parity. He sees this as an equal representation of faculty and students within the college, and a consideration of the ideas brought forth in the college as a community of scholars.

Don Walker
By JIM ALBRIGHT

Recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council. He believes that Glendon is a university and that the college needs a representative of student opinion on Faculty Council, but someone to whom authority has been delegated.

He also stated: "It's too hard to be a representative of everybody. You can talk to people and get their ideas but I don't think that's being representative." He also said that recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council.

The people who object to the compulsory general education requirement have, he stated, "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

If a candidate problem is parity, he sees that the present form of having the chairmen of each department belong to the council be changed so that a candidate problem is parity. He sees this as an equal representation of faculty and students within the college, and a consideration of the ideas brought forth in the college as a community of scholars.

Don Walker
By JIM ALBRIGHT

Recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council. He believes that Glendon is a university and that the college needs a representative of student opinion on Faculty Council, but someone to whom authority has been delegated.

He also stated: "It's too hard to be a representative of everybody. You can talk to people and get their ideas but I don't think that's being representative." He also said that recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council.

The people who object to the compulsory general education requirement have, he stated, "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

If a candidate problem is parity, he sees that the present form of having the chairmen of each department belong to the council be changed so that a candidate problem is parity. He sees this as an equal representation of faculty and students within the college, and a consideration of the ideas brought forth in the college as a community of scholars.

Don Walker
By JIM ALBRIGHT

Recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council. He believes that Glendon is a university and that the college needs a representative of student opinion on Faculty Council, but someone to whom authority has been delegated.

He also stated: "It's too hard to be a representative of everybody. You can talk to people and get their ideas but I don't think that's being representative." He also said that recruitment is the impetus for the candidacy of Don Walker for Faculty Council.

The people who object to the compulsory general education requirement have, he stated, "Glendon will stand or fall on recruitment." He wants to recruit students from all over the country.

If a candidate problem is parity, he sees that the present form of having the chairmen of each department belong to the council be changed so that a candidate problem is parity. He sees this as an equal representation of faculty and students within the college, and a consideration of the ideas brought forth in the college as a community of scholars.
Glendon loses another scrum. Scarborough (in striped shirts) won the game, 14 - 5.

Rompimg animals rampage

By NICK MARTIN

As the CFL schedule passed the halfway mark, the D House Animals held first place with a 4-2 record, closely followed by A, B and the sophs at 3-2. The Animals have reeallmed themselves number one. "We're number one an obscene caller traced to D House told PRO TEM.

Ye Greene Machine dancd the Wade on the Pen­sioners 45-20, Al Hamilton scored twice, with Dave Stone, Peter Allan, Jim Martin, Paul Hallenst, and Henry Wood doing the six routine, Aged Mike Faye scored twice and the alliterative Larry Leonard once for the Ponca­deleons.

The Axemen shaved 3rd year 33-32, Armstrong deuexed, and Kevin Kilbey, Vic Borycheki, and Know­les did it to the Beavers once apace, Don Wallace got two TD's, with Larry Scan­gan, Lorne Rogers, and Sandy McKay hitting home for 3rd. The Beavers were without star flanker 'Golden Death' Del Buono, who was laid up with a bad cold.

Arabian beauty

(Glendon now has a cheer­leading squad to keep all the fans occupied. Leading the girls will be the well-known Arabian beauty, Abad Kold. The Animals chewed up the Octogenarians 46 - 21, Gobby Cohen, Jamie Meuser, and Ramblin' Ralph Trodd were all a bunch of two­timers, while Dave Root scored one major, Pete Schwalm, Marty Bazinet, and Pete Gunen tallied for the Go­dell Brigade.

E House Fronted the frosh 27-20, Mike Ellis had 14 points, with Doug Street and Jim Mountain adding six each. Lawrence had two for 1st, and Prichard chipped in a major.

The sophomores gave third a hard time, triumph­ing 20-19, George Hewson, Mike Santell, and Murray Shields were the heroes for 2nd, while Don Wallace, Dave Scarbox and Nick Martin led the Beavers.

Serpent upright

The Serpent of the Don has informed PRO TEM that any balls landing in the ri­ver from now on will become his property, He will return them only if a young virgin is sacrificed to him. Accor­dingly, convenor Roy Hanna has rounded up a big supply of... of extra footballs.

The Sons of B topped the frosh 48-43 as Garry Free­burn had four scores, Geoff Scott 2, and Bruce McDo­onald one. Craig Cameron and Bruce Stacey did it twi­ce for 1st, and Andre Do­yan, Glen Jones, and Andy Stevenson also scored.

In intercollege action, Glendon whipped Founders 42-15, Renaut Marier scor­red one major after as well as getting two touchdowns, Roy Hamna and Garry Collins also got six-pointers, while Murray Shields booted six converts. Our secret code expert has examined the scorecard and thinks the other scorers are possibly Ray Munrit and Jeff Lee. Perhaps we were never meant to know.

How many times have we used that expression this year? Send your answers to Contest C/0 PRO TEM. The expression itself will not be accepted as an answer. Last week's winner is David Mouton for his answer of 'Krouchin' Casey'. Mr. Mouton will receive a year's supply of strawberry mung.

Ontario Student Awards

Students receiving grant assistance under the Ontario Student Awards Program should submit the Request for Grant Portion in duplicate to the Student Awards Office immediately.

Ray Knight of D House has won the Glendon Golf Tournament with a score of 83, usually reliable sources inform us, from Bruce Berdick was second with 84, and Terry Irie of 2nd year was two strokes behind the leader (i.e., Knight).

Racketeer Jim Martin tells us that the singles tennis tourney was won by frosh Al Kramer, "Kramer won it." Martin said in an exclusive interview. He refused to elaborate, but PRO TEM's network of in­formers have since discovered that Mike Salter and the aforementioned Martin won the doubles.

Giz Haranyi of 1st year won the cross-country in a time of 19:05, with Larry Scanlan of 3rd year second. Three competitors were ruled ineligible for receiving outside help during the race after the Masked Beaver was forced to rescue them from his arch­enemy the Viet Squirrel, "Nuga freebup undula ayayayay," the Champion of Freedom told PRO TEM in describing his triumph.

Our rugger team lost to the varsity scrubs 9-2, and fell to Scarborough 14-5, Chopper Kidd gave it the old college try, and Murray Shields converted.

Romping animals rampage

Ray Knight of D House has won the Glendon Golf Tournament with a score of 83, usually reliable sources inform us, from Bruce Berdick was second with 84, and Terry Irie of 2nd year was two strokes behind the leader (i.e., Knight).

Racketeer Jim Martin tells us that the singles tennis tourney was won by frosh Al Kramer, "Kramer won it." Martin said in an exclusive interview. He refused to elaborate, but PRO TEM's network of in­formers have since discovered that Mike Salter and the aforementioned Martin won the doubles.

Giz Haranyi of 1st year won the cross-country in a time of 19:05, with Larry Scanlan of 3rd year second. Three competitors were ruled ineligible for receiving outside help during the race after the Masked Beaver was forced to rescue them from his arch­enemy the Viet Squirrel, "Nuga freebup undula ayayayay," the Champion of Freedom told PRO TEM in describing his triumph.

Our rugger team lost to the varsity scrubs 9-2, and fell to Scarborough 14-5, Chopper Kidd gave it the old college try, and Murray Shields converted.

John Bramberger is the new man in charge of the equipment room at Proctor Field House, John came to Glendon by way of Cernig in the distant York campus located in the rich farm lands to the north of Toronto.

John spent (mis)pent two years at the other cam­pus being bewildered by the error of his ways. Mean­while, his errors did not stop; he became a married man this summer, in a brief flash of brilliance, John made an important decision, however, He decided to mend and wend his ways to that monument to athletes and die-hard sporties - Proctor Field House.

John commented: "The organization of the athletic department as vastly superior to that of our big brother in the north." Moreover, he expressed amaze­ment at the participation in the men's athletic program. However, John is disappointed that Glendon students don't make greater use of the pool.

John told me that equipment managers are sometimes placed in an embarrassing position by uncooperative students, some students don't seem to realize that we are held responsible for all equipment, and to ensure its return, we are requesting that students leave their I.D. cards with us. Equipment has been lost.

Students are ok in general, according to John,

BILL KORT
Forum imports Phil Ochs

By ANDY RAVEN

Phil Ochs, easily the most prominent folk-protest singer in the continent has agreed to do a concert in Toronto later this month, in conjunction with Glendon's International Forum, 'The Year of the Barricade'. The Barricade staff have been working on such a concert for several months but plans were not finalized until recently. The announcement has already aroused interest since Ochs has not been in Eastern Canada for two years. The concert is to be held at the Ryerson Auditorium, Friday Oct. 24 at 8:00 p.m. Tickets at $2, $3, and $4 are on sale now. The proceeds will go to help finance 'The Year of the Barricade'. The Barricade staff have been fairly good individually, the whole performance seemed to be a case of every man giving you.

A singer, songwriter and poet

Long connected with the student movement and the 'Vippers' in the US, Ochs has agreed to fly in from Los Angeles for expenses only. Part of the proceeds from the concert will go to help finance 'The Year of the Barricade'.

Although he has been labelled Communist, anarchist, nihilist, recidivist libertine, poseur, martyr, saint, and "priceless paragon of popular culture" he is nevertheless basically a singer, songwriter and poet who has been expanding the song form and dealing with the social issues of the day. He uses all these abilities to combine and juxtapose a deep understanding of the disillusioned, alienated man with truly unique and often beautiful lyrics. His songs range from the light and relatively straight-forward "I'm only eighteen -- I've got a ruptured spleen" through his now famous "Changes" to the extremely complex yet penetrable "When in Rome".

"And all the high-born ladies So lovely and so true Have been handed to the soldiers When in Rome, do as the Romans do."

Preparing for death

Politically, Ochs has moved considerably since he began to sing and one can trace this development through his writing. Early in his career he was producing anti-war songs, and singing with the late night docks. After a rally from Berkeley Calif. to Den­mark, since then his poetry has become heavier armed, aimed at the destruction of a system which perpetuates fear and nourishes the de-humanizing and alienating forces of today's world.

Amidst this style and perhaps his hope -- an almost frightening beauty which at first cloaks but then spotlights the emotion and reality of an ugly picture. Sometimes as in 'The Scorpion Departed' the thin red lines which separate hope from despair, victory from defeat, San from insane, and most important, real from unreal, disappear and falls into a void never to return, "The radio is begging them to come back to the shore All will be forgiven it will be just like before All you ever want will be waiting by the door."

Tell me I'm not dying

"Tell me I'm not dying" But no one gives an answer, not even one goodbye. The silence of their sinking is all that they reply Some have chosen to decay and others chose to die But I'm not dying No I'm not dying" "Tell me we'll forgive you" Needless to say Phil Ochs has filled several concert halls and he will undoubtedly fill Ryerson Auditorium Oct. 24 but his public appearances are becoming few and far between. Perhaps even Ochs is feeling the grasp of fertility growing tighter, perhaps he is simply preparing for an inevitable death or as Ochs describes it, "preserving for retirement."

A play...

Although the play tended to drag in parts, it was on the average pretty heavy. Next week the play will be 'The Insect World' by Sartre.

A film...

In the fairly recent tradition of 'Easy Rider', 'Last Summer', and 'Hall, Hero', Haskell Wex­ler's 'Medium Cool' now playing at the Down­town, combines excellent dialogue with excel­lent photography with a super-excellent story. Set in Mayor Daley's Chicago immediately before and during the 1968 Democratic Par­ty Convention, 'Medium Cool' explores through the eyes of a young news photographer, both presentation to the masses through the media. Wexler has done an excellent job of con­trasting the latent violence in all age groups, the young photographer's diatribes against the violent society are juxtaposed with scenes of the same man fiercely attacking a punching bag and coaching a small boy with "the object of this game is speed and power. Actually, the object of this game is to beat the brains out of somebody. Then you win."...And other things

The creative writing people are publishing a small magazine at the end of the month to be called 'The Dime Bag' and containing the fluent efforts of our friends and neighbours. The Glendon Art Gallery, second floor B-wing (Swing 1) is occupied by an interlocking photo­graphic (logical) stable created by a very com­petent Ad-man on a plethora of graphic placy. The Poetry and Mime sections of the pro­gram of Fine Arts Faculty presentations at Bur­ton Auditorium are nearly sold out, your own conclusions.
The box has an operational function. That is to say, without it there is no way of affecting a specific atmosphere so that water can evaporate and then condense: there is a real technical need for it. And although I am pleased with how these things look, it is in a way only a very pleasant by-product. What is really important is how they operate in a physical, chemical, biological, ecological or whatever sense.

Hans Haacke

new alchemy ELEMENTS • SYSTEMS • FORCES

ART GALLERY OF ONTARIO
September 27 – October 26, 1969

"Let a floating cloud in the sky,
Let a wave of the sea - let growing mint,
Spinach, onions, tomatoes - let these be exhibited
As shows, at great price for admission!"

(Whitman)

A prism is a mirror type of object, a geometric type of object because of its shape, and a transparent window which is a third kind of object. I think that to understand them you have to take an aspect like their "objectness" and break it down. They are never one single thing, they are always several things at once, overlapped.

Charles Ross
"In school I was appointed to represent the Student Body in disputes with the Staff, I ALWAVS cast my vote for the staff side! The principal awarded me a GENEROUS scholarship for OUT- STANDING contributions to the school.

"Later the Insurance Company I joined asked me to do a STUDY on the feasibility of Lowering Pre- miums! I sat on it for three years and they made me a Vice President!"

"As my reputations grew, the Police Commission put me in charge of an independent committee to investigate Police Brutality! I didn't find any! The city made me Citizen of the Year!

"Soon a giant automobile manufac- turer offered me a FAT BUCK and a FREE HAND to make safe features in their products. I never even reported for WORK!"

"So the young rats split the scene. They must make a blatant and os- tentatious show of rejection. Tradition and old moral values are tramp- les in the rush, which is in some cases an acual physical exodus, but most often just a temporary psychological trip,

But no matter what degree or form that revolution assumes, it usually always ends up in an ultimate sense of community, of togetherness. Like man, they can't beat 'em all, there's too many.

The horrendous rock festival at Woodstock, New York, last August was a classic example. Here close to a million souls gathered peacefully despite rain, claustrophobic conditions and the lack of shelter. Total strangers shared food and overcame tension. About ninety-five per cent were high on grass and were therefore eased into passivi- ty, but they did live in true Se- mantical style for days.

But drowning young rats do need some escape vehicle. If they can't do as an alcohol addicted hippie does every year and travel across the country, then the need is rated psychologically.

On his trip he may fly the wings of the great white booze bird. The use of alcohol in Canada has trebled over the last thirty years and latest figures estimate that your average red-blooded Canadian feeds his habits every year and travels across the country. The need is rated psychologically.

Looking in the mirror, there is a for a myriad of reasons, an obvious rift between the student-youth com- munity and the mature adult com- munity. The latter in the eyes of some of the younger rats are rife with the disease of hypocri- sy (as the cartoon exaggerates so beautifully).

So the young rats split the scene. They must make a blatant and os- tentatious show of rejection. Tradition and old moral values are tramp- les in the rush, which is in some cases an actual physical exodus, but most often just a temporary psychological trip,

But no matter what degree or form that revolution assumes, it usually always ends up in an ultimate sense of community, of togetherness. Like man, they can't beat 'em all, there's too many.

The horrendous rock festival at Woodstock, New York, last August was a classic example. Here close to a million souls gathered peacefully despite rain, claustrophobic conditions and the lack of shelter. Total strangers shared food and overcame tension. About ninety-five per cent were high on grass and were therefore eased into passivi- ty, but they did live in true Se- mantical style for days.

But drowning young rats do need some escape vehicle. If they can't do as an alcohol addicted hippie does every year and travel across the country, then the need is rated psychologically.

On his trip he may fly the wings of the great white booze bird. The use of alcohol in Canada has trebled over the last thirty years and latest figures estimate that your average red-blooded Canadian feeds his habits every year and travels across the country. The need is rated psychologically.

Looking in the mirror, there is a for a myriad of reasons, an obvious rift between the student-youth com- munity and the mature adult com- munity. The latter in the eyes of some of the younger rats are rife with the disease of hypocri- sy (as the cartoon exaggerates so beautifully).

So the young rats split the scene. They must make a blatant and os- tentatious show of rejection. Tradition and old moral values are tramp- les in the rush, which is in some cases an actual physical exodus, but most often just a temporary psychological trip,

But no matter what degree or form that revolution assumes, it usually always ends up in an ultimate sense of community, of togetherness. Like man, they can't beat 'em all, there's too many.

The horrendous rock festival at Woodstock, New York, last August was a classic example. Here close to a million souls gathered peacefully despite rain, claustrophobic conditions and the lack of shelter. Total strangers shared food and overcame tension. About ninety-five per cent were high on grass and were therefore eased into passivi- ty, but they did live in true Se- mantical style for days.

But drowning young rats do need some escape vehicle. If they can't do as an alcohol addicted hippie does every year and travel across the country, then the need is rated psychologically.

On his trip he may fly the wings of the great white booze bird. The use of alcohol in Canada has trebled over the last thirty years and latest figures estimate that your average red-blooded Canadian feeds his habits every year and travels across the country. The need is rated psychologically.

Looking in the mirror, there is a for a myriad of reasons, an obvious rift between the student-youth com- munity and the mature adult com- munity. The latter in the eyes of some of the younger rats are rife with the disease of hypocri- sy (as the cartoon exaggerates so beautifully).

So the young rats split the scene. They must make a blatant and os- tentatious show of rejection. Tradition and old moral values are tramp- les in the rush, which is in some cases an actual physical exodus, but most often just a temporary psychological trip,

But no matter what degree or form that revolution assumes, it usually always ends up in an ultimate sense of community, of togetherness. Like man, they can't beat 'em all, there's too many.

The horrendous rock festival at Woodstock, New York, last August was a classic example. Here close to a million souls gathered peacefully despite rain, claustrophobic conditions and the lack of shelter. Total strangers shared food and overcame tension. About ninety-five per cent were high on grass and were therefore eased into passivi- ty, but they did live in true Se- mantical style for days.

But drowning young rats do need some escape vehicle. If they can't do as an alcohol addicted hippie does every year and travel across the country, then the need is rated psychologically.

On his trip he may fly the wings of the great white booze bird. The use of alcohol in Canada has trebled over the last thirty years and latest figures estimate that your average red-blooded Canadian feeds his habits every year and travels across the country. The need is rated psychologically.

Looking in the mirror, there is a for a myriad of reasons, an obvious rift between the student-youth com- munity and the mature adult com- munity. The latter in the eyes of some of the younger rats are rife with the disease of hypocri- sy (as the cartoon exaggerates so beautifully).

So the young rats split the scene. They must make a blatant and os- tentatious show of rejection. Tradition and old moral values are tramp- les in the rush, which is in some cases an actual physical exodus, but most often just a temporary psychological trip,